ACCENT Marketing Services Expands Strategic Implementation of NICE SmartCenter

Selects NICE Perform to improve agent performance and compliance with the PCI standard

Ra'anana, Israel, September 08, 2008 - NICE Systems (NASDAQ: NICE), a leading global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract Insight from Interactions to drive performance, today announced that ACCENT Marketing Services, a global provider of outsourced customer lifecycle management solutions, has expanded its strategic implementation of NICE SmartCenter with the addition of NICE Perform. ACCENT has been using NICE's workforce management solution, IEX TotalView, since 2007 and will now be expanding with NICE Perform to help improve agent performance for delivering the highest quality of customer service and to support compliance with the Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard (PCI DSS).

ACCENT's outsourced customer lifecycle management solutions include lead generation, customer care and technical support, cross- and up-sell campaigns, loyalty marketing campaigns, and product recall management using multiple channels such as phone, email, fax, and mail. ACCENT serves companies in a variety of vertical markets, including telecom, manufacturing, insurance, healthcare, and retail.

NICE Perform will provide ACCENT's contact center supervisors with enhanced technology and tools to support precision quality management for improving agent performance, customer satisfaction, and training effectiveness. It will also enable ACCENT's contact center supervisors to proactively evaluate and improve the quality of service provided to its clients' customers. By targeting key calls as well as correlating them with agent screen activity supervisors will be able to more accurately identify what agents can and should do to deliver world-class customer service, as well as to develop programs for performance improvement.

ACCENT will also use the NICE solution with its advanced media protection capabilities, including end-to-end media (voice and screen) encryption, to ensure compliance with the Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard (PCI DSS), providing assurance to their clients that their customers' account information is safe. Using the NICE solution will help ACCENT decrease the risk associated with non-compliance and avoid punitive measures.

Kevin Foley, President and CEO, ACCENT, commented, "Following the great success we've experienced with NICE's workforce management solution, we selected NICE once again to help us deliver a quality platform across our contact centers. Our clients rely on us to help them acquire, support, retain and grow their customers. With NICE we will be able to provide industry-leading quality, insight and analysis while also meeting our PCI compliance goals."

"We are very happy that ACCENT will be expanding its NICE SmartCenter environment," said Eran Gorev, President and CEO, NICE Americas. "ACCENT is a world-class leader in customer lifecycle management, delivering the right strategies, resources, and tools to help companies build meaningful and profitable customer relationships. This decision reflects the unique benefits NICE offers in driving strategic enterprise initiatives such as improving customer loyalty and increasing customer retention."

NICE Has Leading Market Share in EMEA According to Recent Agent Performance Optimization Report by Analyst Firm Frost & Sullivan

Ra'anana, Israel, September 16, 2008, NICE Systems Ltd. (NASDAQ: NICE), the global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract Insight from Interactions to drive performance, today announced that independent analyst firm, Frost & Sullivan, identified NICE's Smart Center solution for improving contact center and enterprise performance as leading in market share in the EMEA region in its recent market report, EMEA Agent Performance Optimization, 2008..The data in the report is based on 2007 revenues The report cited NICE as having 34% of the quality management market,10 percentage points over the nearest competitor.

Keith Dawson, Senior Analyst at Frost & Sullivan commented, "The NICE SmartCenter offering has the ability to deliver a real business value to both contact centers and enterprises. Strategically, it delivers customer-driven insights on how to improve agent performance for enhanced customer experience and loyalty. Furthermore, the solution's approach puts together all of its components through a single unified user interface which makes report extraction intuitive, no longer needing to have to extract one set of KPIs about agent activity in one place and then coordinate it with data about performance goals in another place. This is a winning combination."

NICE SmartCenter is helping organizations tackle the challenges of today's dynamic business environment which include a wave of new regulations that require greater capabilities in ensuring compliance and in managing risk; the need to stay on top of growing customer expectations across multiple touch-points; and the imperative to stay ahead of more competition than ever when it comes to ensuring customer loyalty and retention.

"We are happy to see further validation of the NICE SmartCenter strategy for enabling organizations across a variety of vertical markets to improve the business performance of their call centers and enterprise," said Tamir Ginat, President, NICE EMEA. "This report is further recognition of the strength of our market position, which is a reflection of the real value-add our solutions bring to our customers, the dedication of our staff, and the tremendous success of our business partners throughout the region."

NICE SmartCenter Selected by Canada's WestJet Airlines

IEX TotalView Workforce Management and Performance Management solutions selected

Raanana, Israel, September 23, 2008 - NICE Systems (NASDAQ: NICE), the global provider of advanced solutions that enable organizations to extract Insight from Interactions to drive performance, today announced WestJet Airlines Ltd., Canada's leading low-cost airline, has selected the integrated NICE SmartCenter solutions for workforce management and performance management. These integrated solutions were selected based on their ability to meet WestJet's business requirements and stringent technology standards.

IEX TotalView system will improve WestJet's forecasting and scheduling processes. As a result, WestJet will be able to operate its contact center business in a more efficient and effective manner. Through this deployment, the company expects to see increased staffing efficiency, lower telecom costs, and increased agent empowerment, among other returns. Combining the workforce management and performance management solutions offers WestJet even greater power and performance. The performance manager solution will aggregate data from WestJet's critical contact center solutions, such as the workforce management system and its ACDs, to provide a broader and deeper understanding of the business through a unified view of the business.

"We strive to provide our guests with an amazing experience," said Todd Peterson, Director of Operations for WestJet's Distribution team. "With the workforce management system's proven track record of success, and the performance management solution's comprehensive capabilities, I'm confident that these NICE SmartCenter solutions will enable us to further enhance the Guest experience we provide, while lowering costs and promoting continued success for our people".

Debbie May, president of IEX Corporation, a NICE Systems company added, "We are excited to have WestJet as a client. Their decision to make the switch to IEX TotalView is evidence of the solution's differentiated business value. IEX TotalView continues to be the workforce management solution of choice for sophisticated contact centers. Coupling it with the Performance Manager solution demonstrates the added value of tight integration between workforce management and performance management while highlighting the growing market trend toward selecting vendor-developed solutions instead of developing in house."
