Barclays to acquire Discover's UK credit card business

Barclays Bank PLC ("Barclays") has agreed to acquire Discover's UK credit card business for a consideration of approximately GBP35m, payable in cash.

Under the agreement, Barclays will purchase Discover's UK credit card business ("the Business"), consisting of approximately 1.7 million credit card accounts with approximately GBP2.0 billion of gross receivables (Note 1); the Goldfish brand; its operating facilities and staff; and certain legal entities. Barclays intends to integrate the Business into its credit card division, Barclaycard.

The consideration is subject to an adjustment mechanism based on the net asset value of the Business at completion, which is estimated to be GBP129m (Note 2). Completion is subject to various conditions, including competition clearance, and is expected to occur during the first half of 2008.

Antony Jenkins, Chief Executive of Barclaycard, said: "Barclaycard is one of the largest card issuers in the UK with acknowledged expertise in risk management, customer data management and marketing. Discover's UK credit card business has similar credit characteristics to our existing UK business. The combination provides an attractive opportunity to deploy our expertise across a larger number of cards and customers."

Forward-looking statements

This document contains certain forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 21E of the US Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and Section 27A of the US Securities Act of 1933, as amended, with respect to certain of Barclays plans and its current goals and expectations relating to its future financial condition and performance. These forward-looking statements can be identified by the fact that they do not relate only to historical or current facts. Forward-looking statements sometimes use words such as 'aim', 'anticipate', 'target', 'expect', 'estimate', 'intend', 'plan', 'goal', 'believe', or other words of similar meaning. Examples of forward-looking statements include, among others, statements regarding Barclays future financial position, income growth, impairment charges, business strategy, projected levels of growth in the banking and financial markets, projected costs, estimates of capital expenditures, and plans and objectives for future operations.

By their nature, forward-looking statements involve risk and uncertainty because they relate to future events and circumstances, including, but not limited to, global as well as US economic and business conditions, market related risks such as changes in interest rates and exchange rates, the policies and actions of governmental and regulatory authorities, changes in legislation, and the impact of competition - a number of which factors are beyond Barclays control. As a result, Barclays actual future results may differ materially from the plans, goals, and expectations set forth in Barclays forward-looking statements. Any forward-looking statements made by or on behalf of Barclays speak only as of the date they are made. Barclays does not undertake to update forward-looking statements to reflect any changes in Barclays expectations with regard thereto or any changes in events, conditions or circumstances on which any such statement is based. The reader should, however, consult any additional disclosures that Barclays has made or may make in documents it has filed or may file with the SEC.
