In addition, the Board (or the Committee) may permit the holder of the Option to satisfy the obligation with respect to the taxes required to be withheld by the Company by having the Company withhold Shares the fair market value (as determined by the Board (or the Committee)) of which is equal to such taxes and any fractional amount shall be settled in cash).

7. No Transfer of Options

An Option is not transferable by the holder thereof otherwise than by will or the laws of descent and distribution, and is exercisable, during the lifetime of the Option holder, only by such holder. Notwithstanding the immediately preceding sentence, the Board (or the Committee) may, subject to terms and conditions it may specify, permit an Option holder to transfer any non-statutory option granted to him pursuant to the Plan to one or more of his family members or to trusts or other entities established for the benefit of the Option holder and/or one or more of such family members. For purposes of the Plan, the term family members shall mean the Option holder's spouse, issue and grandchildren (including adopted and step children).

Dear Shareholders,

The year 2005 was another impressive for ChipMOS. We maintained a healthy financial position with a well-managed capacity expansion, despite a downturn in the semiconductor industry in the first half of 2005. We are pleased with our continued progress in expanding our customer base and in our ability to establish additional long-term relationships with new tier-one customers. These included a long-term strategic relationship with a leading NOR flash maker, which served to further strengthen our product line and is expected to be a driver of our future revenue growth.

In the fourth quarter of 2005 we succeeded in further streamlining our corporate structure by completing the merger of our subsidiaries ChipMOS Logic TECHNOLOGIES INC. and ThaiLin Semiconductor Corp., and the merger our of subsidiaries CHANTEK ELECTRONIC CO. LTD. and ChipMOS TECHNOLOGIES INC. The completion of these two mergers has also improved our management and operational efficiencies, which will help ChipMOS take advantage of increasing backend outsourcing demands in the semiconductor market in the coming years.

In 2005, our total revenue was US$464 million, with net income of US$28 million. The gross margin was 26 %, which was consistent with our long-term goal of between 25% to 30%, despite the industry downturn in first half of the year.

We remain cautiously optimistic about our business for the near and long-term. We were able to deliver a more than 10% of revenue growth in the second half this year compared to the first half. Our performance during the first quarter of 2006 was primarily driven by strong demand for our DDR II DRAM and flash businesses. Notably, the transition to DDR II continues to gain momentum. We currently expect revenue from DDR II will contribute significantly to our revenue from memory semiconductors in the fourth quarter of 2006.

The ramp-up of our flash business is in line with our expectations. In the LCD driver IC segment, we have strategically concentrated our services on LCD TV applications that we currently expect to be high growth and employed our proprietary COF technology. While sales of LCD TVs remained strong in the first quarter, there was a downturn in the LCD panel market due to seasonality.

We continue to expect a growth period for LCD TVs will occur in the second half of this year due to price reductions. In addition, we expect other LCD segments, like monitors, will also back on track in the second half reflecting normal trends. We currently expect this to lead to a growth for our LCD business in the second half this year compared to the first half. We also expect our DDR II business to be our major contributor to revenue growth this year as the long awaited transition from DDR to DDR II driven by favorable market prices appears to finally be occurring.

We expect to focus our capital expenditures in 2006 on DDR II DRAM high speed testing, 12 wafer assembly, flash project, and LCD driver IC production lines. We remain committed to pursuing a conservative investment strategy based on long-term contracts with key strategic customers and visible market demand, which allows us to maintain revenue growth and good profit margins.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, we would like to extend our sincere appreciation to our shareholders, employees, customers and business associates for their continued support over the years.

Sincerely

Shih-Jye Cheng
Chairman
