Dated: July 8, 2009

Dear Shareholders,

Our net revenue in 2008 was US$502 million, representing a 28% decrease from US$697 million in 2007. The decrease in revenue was primarily due to the continued market slowdown in both DRAM and LCD driver industry beginning in late of 2007. In addition, the credit crisis of financial market happened in the second half of 2008 resulted in a sharp global recession in the fourth quarter and seriously impacted the semi industry. Due to the low demand for DRAM and LCD driver business for the year and the decline in our ASP, our gross margin declined to 0.2% for the full year 2008 based on ROC GAAP. Net loss for 2008 based on ROC GAAP was US$215 million, and US$2.56 per common share.

To deal with the business down cycle, we launched our cost saving programs in early 2008, which was a couple of quarters ahead of the global recession. During past two years, we also managed to reduce CapEx and take other measures for improving our financial condition. These activities helped us maintain cash position at a healthy level and allowed us to sustain our operations in this tough environment.

From the fourth quarter of 2008 to the first quarter of 2009, we faced the worst market situation since the inception of ChipMOS. In addition to the weak customer demand due to severe market downturn, two of our largest customers, ProMOS and Spansion, encountered critical financial problems during this period, which resulted in our accrual of significant bad debt provision. These bad debts have been fully recognized in our financial results of Q4 08 and Q1 09. However, to protect our interest, we have initiated cash on delivery business policy for customers with financial problem and will try to do our best to recover the A/Rs in default through available legal processes.

We continue to actively work to recover the receivables owed by ProMOS and Spansion. On March 1, 2009, Spansion filed for Chapter 11 protection in the US. In the Chapter 11 proceeding, ChipMOS was elected as the co-chairman in the unsecured creditor committee. Spansion also purchased back some wafers under statutory lien to settle certain portion of its receivables with us. For ProMOS, we just completed a settlement contract for pledged wafer and lien material including production WIP (Work In Process) and finish goods currently in place. Part of ProMOS's receivables will be recovered through the sale of the pledged wafers and lien material back to ProMOS with a discount to market price, and the A/R balance amount will be protected by an equipment mortgage. Going forward, we will continue our efforts to resolve these receivable issues with ProMOS and Spansion.

We also took great efforts to re-organize our financing resources. Part of our plan for financial re-organization included reducing our near-term cash obligations by negotiating with our bank creditors for the extension of repayment terms of bank loans. In mid April, we successfully obtained approval for loan repayment schedule extension from bank creditors whose loan amounts totaled over 50% of our subsidiary ChipMOS TW's total outstanding loans. This repayment schedule extension reduces around 77% of ChipMOS Group's cash need for loan repayment in 2009. For ChipMOS Bermuda, we are under negotiations with our bank creditors to obtain a waiver for any potential financial covenant breach under our contract of syndication loan. These plans also include negotiating with the holders of our convertible notes due 2009 for extension of repayment date or restructuring our convertible notes due 2009. We believe that the loan repayment schedule extension significantly improves our cash position and reduces our net current liabilities. If obtained, the waiver of subsidiary financial covenant breach and convertible notes repayment date extension or restructuring will be significant additional steps toward accomplishing these plans.

As we look forward in 2009 we are cautiously optimistic. We started to see muted signs of a recovery in March 2009. We expect LCD driver demand will improve starting in the second quarter of 2009 due to better-than-expected demand for cell phones, consumer electronics, portable PC, and LCD TVs in China and the US. Customer orders are becoming more orderly giving us improved visibility. This is in contrast to prior quarters where the business was based on rush orders. Based on positive customer forecasts, we expect improving trends through Q3 in our LCD driver business.

We are also seeing better than expected improvements in our mixed-signal business in the second quarter after the sharp drop in demand during the December, January time frame. Overall, based on customer forecasts, our outlook for the mixed-signal business is positive for the near future.

DRAM pricing has also recently started to improve for both contract and retail markets. As a result, our DRAM assembly and testing business also started to recover. In addition to improved pricing, we are started to see increasing demand in May from Taiwan and overseas customers. It usually takes a few weeks to see any significant increase in volume in response to better pricing environment. As a result, we currently expect the second half of 2009 will be better than the first half for overall DRAM market. However, the speed and depth of the recovery will still depend on ASP environment and the market supply/demand status in the second half.

Flash demand is also turning out much better in Q2 09. We are benefitting from an improved final testing and assembly business in the quarter led by our Taiwan customers. However, due to our cash on delivery business policy which covers a NOR flash customer in the US, we expect our flash revenue to decline in Q2 compared to Q1.

In our view, the semiconductor industry bottomed out from this down cycle toward the end of Q1 09. After the historically low Q1 level, we are seeing inventory building in Q2 and better-than-expected end product demand. Market visibility is still limited for Q3 and the second half of 2009 based on the global economic uncertainty. We currently expect a strong quarter-on-quarter growth rate of around 30% in Q2 09. We currently maintain a positive outlook for the second half of 2009.

Finally, cash flow generation is an important goal for our operation. We are very much encouraged by prospects for our cash flow generation ability. As noted earlier, our situation continues to improve in recent business development. We have confidence we will again successfully emerge from this latest downturn. As part of our efforts, we will continue to carry out cost reduction actions we launched a year ago and maintain a conservative capital expenditure approach.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, we would like to extend our sincere appreciation to our shareholders, employees, customers and business associates for their continued support over the years.

Sincerely,

/s/ Shih-Jye Cheng
Shih-Jye Cheng,
Chairman
