Item 8.01. Other Events.

On December 14, 2009, Career Education Corporation (the Company) issued a press release reporting the unofficial three-year cohort default rates (CDRs) for the 2005, 2006 and 2007 Cohorts that the Company had received from the U.S. Department of Education (ED). ED provided the unofficial three-year CDRs for informational purposes and the CDRs represent a modified calculation that will increase the period covered by the ED's compliance calculations from two years to three years with penalties effective 2014. The three-year calculations will not be utilized by ED for compliance purposes until 2014. Once the new ED regulations are effective, main campuses will be subject to a CDR determination based on the following: The current default rate of 25% will increase to a default rate of 30% beginning in 2014. If a main campus is above 30% CDR for three consecutive years, that main campus will be subject to loss of Title IV eligibility. If a main campus is above 30% CDR for three consecutive years, that main campus will be subject to loss of Title IV eligibility. Additionally, institutions with CDRs above 40% for one year are subject to losing Title IV eligibility. The unofficial CDRs for CEC educational institutions including transitional schools for 2005, 2006, and 2007 were 20.9%, 18.0% and 19.6% respectively.

A copy of the press release is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1, and the information contained therein is incorporated herein by reference.
