CNH Signs OEM Supply Agreement with Kverneland Group for the North American Region

BURR RIDGE, IL (October 17, 2011) CNH Global NV, a worldwide leader in the agricultural and construction equipment businesses, announced today that it has signed an agreement with Kverneland Group, a leading international company developing, producing and distributing agricultural machinery and services in many regions of the world.

Under the agreement, Kverneland Group will supply the CNH brand New Holland Agriculture in the North American region (U.S., Canada and Mexico) with agricultural cutting and preparation equipment, including triple cutters and rakes.

With this agreement, New Holland confirms its commitment to expand its product offering to best meet the needs of professional agricultural producers in key dairy and livestock markets and geographies where New Holland has been a historical leader.

New Holland is very pleased with this new and important relationship with Kverneland Group, said Abe Hughes, Vice President New Holland Agricultural Equipment. With this agreement, Kverneland Group and CNH will begin a partnership that has the potential to include future product development, leveraging the strengths of these two agricultural equipment leaders.

Kverneland Group sees this as an important opportunity to strengthen its position as a leading supplier of agricultural implements, said Ingvald Loyning, CEO of Kverneland. We are proud to announce that these key products will be made available to North American farm operations through the strong New Holland network. This is an important development for us and we are confident that the complementary strengths of partnership will make this a long term success for our joint customers.
