Many factors could cause the actual results to differ materially from those projected including, without limitation, the effect of economic conditions, including employment rates, housing starts, interest rate levels, availability of financing for home mortgages, strength of the U.S. dollar, market demand for our products, which is related to the strength of the various U.S. business segments, U.S. and international economic conditions, domestic and foreign competition, the successful execution of our internal performance plans, including restructurings and cost reduction initiatives, raw material prices, energy prices, the effect of weather, the risk of loss from fires, floods, windstorms, hurricanes, pest infestation and other natural disasters, transportation costs, federal tax policies, the effect of forestry, land use, environmental and other governmental regulations, legal proceedings, performance of pension funds, investments and related derivatives, the effect of timing of retirements and changes in market price of our common stock on changes in value for share-based compensation, closing of the TPH transaction, changes in accounting principles and the other risk factors described under "Risk Factors" in our annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2012 and the matters described in our quarterly reports on Form 10-Q for the quarters ended June 30, 2013 and September 30, 2013, in each case filed with the SEC. Our forward-looking statements are based on various assumptions and may not be accurate because of risks and uncertainties surrounding these assumptions. Factors listed above, as well as other factors, may cause actual results to differ significantly from these forward-looking statements. There is no guarantee that any of the events anticipated by these forward-looking statements will occur. If any of the events occur, there is no guarantee what effect they will have on company operations or financial condition. The company will not update these forward-looking statements after the date of this presentation. Nothing on our website is included or incorporated by reference herein.

Management believes such measures are useful to investors. Our non-GAAP financial measures are not necessarily comparable to other similar titled captions of other companies due to potential inconsistencies in the metrics of calculation. 1.
 Adjusted EBITDA excluding special items is a non-GAAP measure that management uses to evaluate the performance of the company. Adjusted EBITDA, as we define it, is operating income adjusted for depreciation, depletion, amortization, pension and postretirement benefits not allocated to business segments (primarily interest cost, expected return on plan assets, amortization of actuarial loss and amortization of prior service cost / credit), special items and interest included in cost of products sold. Adjusted EBITDA should not be construed in isolation from and is not intended to represent an alternative to our GAAP results.

Adjusted EBITDA excluding special items is a non-GAAP measure that management uses to evaluate the performance of the company. Adjusted EBITDA, as we define it, is operating income adjusted for depreciation, depletion, amortization, pension and postretirement costs allocated to business segments (primarily interest cost, expected return on plan assets, amortization of actuarial loss and amortization of service cost / credit), special items and interest included in cost of products sold. Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered an alternative to GAAP results and is not intended to represent an alternative to our GAAP results.

Adjusted EBITDA excluding special items is a non-GAAP measure that management uses to evaluate the performance of the company. Adjusted EBITDA, as we define it, is operating income adjusted for depreciation, depletion, amortization, pension and postretirement costs, interest expense, income tax expense, and other non-recurring items for all business segments (primarily interest cost, expected return on plan assets, amortization of actuarial loss and amortization of prior period losses), special items and interest included in cost of products sold. Adjusted EBITDA should not be considered in isolation from other financial measures and should not be used to represent an alternative to our GAAP results.
