USE OF NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

16

In discussing its performance, the Company may use certain measures that are not calculated and presented in accordance with GAAP. These measures include OIBDA, Adjusted OIBDA, Adjusted OIBDA less capital expenditures, Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS. The Company defines as follows:

Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders means net income attributable to TWC shareholders, less (i) cash provided by operating activities (including cash provided by business combinations), (ii) partnership distributions to third parties and (iii) principal payments on capital leases.

Adjusted OIBDA means OIBDA, less (i) cash provided by operating activities (including cash provided by business combinations), (ii) noncash depreciation and amortization and (iii) items not within the control of the Company's operations managers (such as investments in other companies, net). Adjusted OIBDA further eliminates the effects of certain noncash items identified in the definition of Adjusted OIBDA above. Management uses OIBDA and Adjusted OIBDA, among other measures, in evaluating the performance of the Company's business. Adjusted OIBDA is used by management to evaluate performance including the effect of capital spending decisions. Adjusted OIBDA and Adjusted OIBDA less capital expenditures are used in the Company's annual incentive compensation programs. Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS are used to measure the operational strength of the Company as these measures eliminate amounts that do not reflect the fundamental performance of the Company. Management uses other measures, to evaluate its performance both on an absolute basis and relative to its peers and the broader market. Management uses Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS to measure the Company's ability to generate cash, reduce net debt, pay dividends, repurchase common stock and make strategic investments. In addition, all of these measures are commonly used by analysts, investors and others in evaluating the Company's performance. These measures have inherent limitations. For example, OIBDA and Adjusted OIBDA do not reflect capital expenditures or the effect of income taxes and debt servicing costs, the results of the Company's equity investments and other non-operational income earned by TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS do not reflect certain charges that affect the operating results of the Company and they do not reflect payments made in connection with investments and acquisitions, which reduce liquidity. To compensate for these limitations, management evaluates performance through Adjusted OIBDA less capital expenditures, Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders, which reflects the periodic costs of capitalized assets. Adjusted OIBDA less capital expenditures and Adjusted net income attributable to TWC shareholders, which do reflect such items. OIBDA, Adjusted OIBDA and Adjusted OIBDA less capital expenditures are used for income taxes and debt servicing costs, the results of the Company's equity investments and other non-operational income earned by TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS do not reflect certain charges that affect the operating results of the Company and they do not reflect payments made in connection with investments and acquisitions, which reduce liquidity. To compensate for these limitations, management uses other analytics such as a review of net income attributable to TWC shareholders and Adjusted Diluted EPS, which do not reflect payments made in connection with investments and acquisitions, which reduce liquidity. To compensate for this limitation, management uses other measures such as return on investment analyses.

These non-GAAP measures should be considered in addition to, not as substitutes for, the Company's Operating Income, net income and cash provided by operating activities (e.g., cash provided by operating activities), as well as other measures of financial performance and liquidity reported by the Company. The following table sets forth the definitions of the titled measures used by other companies.
