METHANEX ANNOUNCES TEMPORARY INTERRUPTION OF ITS TRINIDAD OPERATIONS

VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA (Marketwired November 27, 2014) - Methanex Corporation (TSX:MX)(NASDAQ:MEOH) announced today that its Trinidad operations have been temporarily idled due to an interruption in power supply. The facilities have not been receiving electrical power off the national grid since the morning hours of November 27.

The National Gas Company of Trinidad and Tobago took its 56-inch cross-island natural gas pipeline out of service to investigate a possible underground leak. Consequently, natural gas supply to a major power generator is not available. We understand the outage has impacted most industrial power users on the Point Lisas estate. Trinidad and Tobago Electricity Commission (T&TEC), the local power company, has advised that they expect national grid power to be returned in 3-5 days. Methanex is taking the necessary steps to manage the situation and ensure a safe and efficient restart of the plant once power is restored.

Methanex is the operator and majority shareholder of the 1.7 million tonne Atlas methanol facility with 63.1% ownership. Methanex also owns 100% of the 0.9 million tonne Titan methanol facility. Both plants are located in Point Lisas, Trinidad.

Methanex is a Vancouver-based, publicly traded company and is the world's largest producer and supplier of methanol to major international markets. Methanex shares are listed for trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Canada under the trading symbol MX and on the NASDAQ Global Market in the United States under the trading symbol MEOH. Methanex can be visited online at www.methanex.com.
