REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

The Board of Directors and Shareholders of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A.

We have reviewed the condensed consolidated balance sheet of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A. and subsidiaries as of March 31, 2005 and the related condensed consolidated statements of income and of cash flows for the three-month periods ended March 31, 2005 and 2004 and the condensed consolidated statements of shareholders' equity for the three-month period ended March 31, 2005. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management.

We conducted our reviews in accordance with standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). A review of interim financial information consists principally of applying analytical review procedures to financial data, and making inquiries of persons responsible to financial and accounting matters. It is substantially less in scope than an audit conducted in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, the objective of which is the expression of an opinion regarding the financial statements taken as a whole. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

Based on our review, we are not aware of any material modifications that should be made to the condensed consolidated financial statements referred to above for them to be in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

Edgar Filing: Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. - Form 6-K

We have previously audited, in accordance with auditing standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States), the consolidated balance sheet of Gol Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A. and subsidiaries as of December 31, 2004, and the related consolidated statements of income, cash flows and shareholders equity for the year then ended (not presented herein), and in our report dated February 22, 2005, we expressed an unqualified opinion on those consolidated financial statements. In our opinion, the information set forth in the accompanying condensed consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2004 is fairly stated, in all material respects, in relation to the consolidated balance sheet from which it has been derived.

NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

(Unaudited)

(In thousands of Brazilian Reais)

1. Business Overview

Edgar Filing: Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. - Form 6-K

GOL Linhas Aéreas Inteligentes S.A. (the Company or GLAI) is the parent company of GOL Transportes Aéreos S.A. (GOL), the only low-fare, low-cost airline operating in Brazil providing frequent service on routes between all of Brazil's major cities. GOL focuses on increasing the growth and profitability of its business by popularizing air travel and stimulating and meeting demand for simple, safe and affordable air travel in South America for both business and leisure passengers, while having the lowest costs in the airline industry worldwide.

GOL commenced operations on January 15, 2001 and, as of March 31, 2005, had a fleet of 30 aircraft, consisting of 20 Boeing 737-700, 5 Boeing 737-800 Next Generation and 5 Boeing 737-300 aircraft. During the period ended March 31, 2005, the Company inaugurated 2 new destinations - João Pessoa (PB) and Petrolina (PE) - increasing the number of cities served to 38 (March 31, 2003 - 36) and operating from 40 (March 31, 2003 - 37) airports in Brazil and Argentina.

On January 20, 2005, the Company obtained authorization by the Comissão de Estudos Relativos à Navegação Aérea (CERNAI) to operate regularly-scheduled flights from Brazil to Santa Cruz de La Sierra, Bolivia, which are expect to begin operating during the second quarter of 2005.

The following table sets forth the ownership and percentages of the Company's voting (common) and non-voting (preferred) shares as at March 31, 2005:

2. Basis of Presentation of the Condensed Consolidated Interim Financial Statements

These unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements were prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (US GAAP), using Brazilian Reais as functional and reporting currency. The average exchange rates for the first quarter of 2005 and 2004 were R$2.6692 and R$2.8945 respectively per U.S. Dollar. The exchange rate at March 31, 2005 was R$2.6662. The accounting principles adopted under US GAAP differ in certain respects from accounting principles generally accepted in Brazil (Brazilian GAAP), which the Company uses to prepare its statutory financial statements.

2. Basis of Presentation of the Condensed Consolidated Interim Financial Statements

The accompanying unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States for interim financial information. Accordingly, they do not include all of the information and footnotes required by generally accepted accounting principles in the United States for complete financial statements. In the opinion of management, all adjustments consisting of normal recurring nature, considered necessary for a fair presentation, have been included.

The results of the three-month period ended March 31, 2005 are not necessarily indicative of the results that might be expected for the full year ending December 31, 2005. The balance sheet at December 31, 2004 has been derived from the audited financial statements at that date but does not include all of the information and footnotes required by generally accepted accounting principles in the United States for complete financial statements. The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the audited consolidated financial statements and footnotes for the year ended December 31, 2004.

For further information, refer to the consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2004 and footnotes thereto included in the Company's financial statements filed with the SEC.

3. Significant Accounting Policies

The more significant accounting policies adopted in the preparation of the condensed consolidated interim financial statements are consistent with those adopted in the preparation of the audited consolidated financial statements as of December 31, 2004.

Cash and cash equivalents and short-term investments. The Company's short-term investment portfolio consists of traditional fixed maturities securities, which are readily convertible into cash and are primarily highly liquid in nature. Certain of the investments which have original maturities of 90 days or less, when purchased, are classified as cash and cash equivalents. Other short-term investments are classified as trading securities, as defined by the FASB Statement 115, "Accounting for Certain Investments in Debt and Equity Securities," and are carried at their fair values based upon the quoted market prices at period end. Accordingly, changes in values of such investments are included in interest income.

Advertising. Advertising costs, which are included in sales and marketing, are expensed as incurred. Advertising expense for the nine-month period ended March 31, 2005 and 2004 amounted to R$8,742 and R$6,697 respectively.

3. Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)

Accounting for stock-based compensation. The Company accounts for stock-based compensation in accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees, and related interpretations (Opinion 25). Compensation expense for a stock option grant is recognized if the exercise price is less than the fair value of the Company's stock on the grant date.

In December 2004, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued FASB Statement No. 123 (revised 2004), Share-Based Payment, (SFAS 123(R)), which is a revision of FASB Statement No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation. SFAS 123(R) supersedes Opinion 25 and amends FASB Statement No. 95, Statement of Cash Flows. Generally, the approach in SFAS 123(R) is similar to the approach described in SFAS 123. However, SFAS 123(R) requires all share-based payments to employees, including grants of employee stock options, to be recognized in the income statement based on their fair values. SFAS 123(R) must be adopted no later than January 1, 2006, under which pro forma disclosure will no longer be an alternative.

As permitted by SFAS 123, the Company currently accounts for share-based payments to employees using Opinion 25's intrinsic value method and, as such, generally recognizes compensation cost for employee stock options equal to their intrinsic values at the award date. Accordingly, the adoption of SFAS 123(R)'s fair value method will impact the Company's results of operations, although it will have no impact on the Company's overall financial position. The impact of adoption cannot be predicted at this time because it will depend on levels of share-based payments granted in the future. However, had the Company adopted SFAS 123(R) in prior periods, the impact of that standard would have approximated the impact of SFAS 123 as described in the disclosure of pro forma net income and earnings per share.

The Company currently expects to adopt SFAS 123R effective January 1, 2006. In addition, the Company has not yet determined the financial statement impact of adopting SFAS 123R for periods beyond 2005.

The following table illustrates the effect on net income and earnings per common and preferred share as if the fair value method to measure stock-based compensation had been applied as required under the disclosure provisions of SFAS No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation, as amended:

3. Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)

	Three months ended March
	2005	2004
Net income, as reported	131,084	90,656
Add: Stock-based employee compensation using intrinsic value	2,129	-

Edgar Filing: Gol Intelligent Airlines Inc. - Form 6-K

Pro forma net income	131,848	90,656

Basic as reported	0.70	0.54
Basic pro forma	0.70	0.54
Diluted as reported	0.70	0.54
Diluted pro forma	0.70	0.54

The fair value for these stock options was estimated at the date of grant using the Black Scholes option-pricing model assuming an expected dividend yield of 2%, expected volatility of approximately 37%, weighted average risk-free interest rate of 17%, and an expected average life of 1.5 years.

Financial derivative instruments. The Company accounts for financial derivative instruments utilizing Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133 (SFAS 133), Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities, as amended. To help mitigate the Company's overall foreign currency and fuel volatility risks, the Company primarily uses foreign exchange and fuel contracts. These instruments primarily consist of purchased call options, collar structures, and fixed-price swap agreements, and are accounted for as cash-flow hedges, as defined by SFAS 133. Since there is not a futures market for Brazilian jet fuel prices, the Company uses crude oil derivatives to hedge its exposure to the volatility of fuel prices. The Company believes there is strong correlation between crude oil and Brazilian jet fuel prices and measures the effectiveness of the hedging instruments in offsetting changes to those prices, as required by SFAS 133. The fair value of fuel derivative instruments, depending on the type of instrument, was determined by the use of present value methods or standard option value models with assumptions about commodity prices based on those observed in underlying markets. All changes in fair value that are considered to be effective, as defined, are recorded in Accumulated other comprehensive income until the underlying exchange exposure is realized and fuel is consumed. See Note 11 for further information on SFAS 133 and financial derivative instruments.

Comprehensive Income. Comprehensive income includes changes in the derivatives instruments, which qualify for hedge accounting in accordance with SFAS 133.

Investment funds have average earnings of approximately 0.91% per month, net of taxes. Earnings of the quotas redeemed in less than 30 days, before income tax levy, as from the investment date, are subject to Tax on Financial Operations (IOF).

10. Contingencies (Continued)

The Company is party to legal proceedings and claims that arise during the ordinary course of business. While the outcome of these lawsuits and proceedings cannot be predicted with certainty and could have a material adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations and cash flows, it is the Company's opinion, after consulting with its outside counsel, that the ultimate disposition of such suits will not have a material adverse effect on its financial position, results of operation or cash flows. The fiscal claims reserve for contingent losses represents the total exposure of loss, including interests and penalties.

11. Financial Instruments and Concentration of Risk

At March 31, 2005 and December 31, 2004, the Company's primary monetary assets were cash equivalents, short-term investments and assets related to aircraft leasing operations. The Company's primary monetary liabilities are related to aircraft leasing operations. All monetary assets other than those related to aircraft leasing operations included in the balance sheet are stated at amounts that approximate their fair values.

Financial instruments that expose the Company to credit risk involve mainly cash equivalents, short-term investments and accounts receivable. The Company maintains cash deposits with highly-rated financial institutions. Credit risk on accounts receivable relates to amounts receivable from the major international credit card companies and travel agencies. These receivables are short-term and the majority of them settle within 30 days.

The Company's revenue is generated in Brazilian reais (and a small portion in Argentine pesos from flights between Argentina and Brazil), however its liabilities, particularly those related to aircraft leasing, are US dollar-denominated. The Company's currency exchange exposure at March 31, 2005 is as set forth below:

a. Exchange rates

Exchange exposure related to amounts payable arising from these leasing operations is managed together with commercial hedging strategies. The Company accounts for its foreign currency futures derivative instruments as cash flow hedges under SFAS 133. The change in the fair value of the Company's financial derivative instruments at March 31, 2005, related to option and future contracts of U.S. dollar currency in the nominal amount of USD135.7 million, with the longest remaining term of eight months, was a net current liability of R$849 (equivalent to US$318 thousands) classified in other current liabilities in the Balance Sheet.

During the three months ended March 31, 2005, the Company recognized a $998 loss in fuel of R$650, leasing of R$240, insurance and others and R$108, from effective hedging activities and there was no ineffectiveness of its hedges recorded at financial gain (losses) in other income.

11. Financial Instruments and Concentration of Risk (Continued)

b. Fuel

The Company is exposed to the effect of changes in the price of aircraft fuel. To manage these risks, the Company enters into crude oil option and swap agreements. Prices for crude oil are highly correlated to Brazilian jet fuel, making crude oil derivatives effective at offsetting variability in jet fuel prices to provide short-term protection against a sharp increase in average fuel price. The Company accounts for its fuel hedge derivative instruments as cash flow hedges under SFAS 133. The change in fair value of the Company's financial derivative instruments at March 31, 2005, related to contracts to buy up to 210,000 barrels of crude oil in the nominal amount of US$15.8 million, with longest remaining term of two months, was a net asset of approximately R$2,978, which was classified in other current assets in the Balance Sheet.

Due to the volatility in markets for crude oil and crude oil related products, the Company is unable to predict the amount of ineffectiveness each period, which may result in increased volatility in the Company's results. Any such ineffectiveness would be recognized in expense in the period that it occurs. At March 31, 2005, there was no ineffectiveness recorded in the income statement.

During the three months ended March 31, 2005, the Company recognized $3,084 in gains in fuel expense, from effective hedging activities and there was no ineffectiveness of its hedges recorded at gain (losses) in other income.

At December 31, 2004, the Company had derivative contracts to buy up to 120,000 barrels of crude oil in the nominal amount of US$5.1 million and fair value of US$ 5.2 million with a one-month term, and these derivatives did not qualify as hedges for financial reporting purposes and changes in fair value of such derivative contracts were R$1,466 during 2004, which was recorded as financial income.

13. Earnings per Share

The Company's preferred shares are not entitled to receive any fixed dividends. Rather, the preferred shareholders are entitled to receive dividends per share in the same amount of the dividends per share paid to holders of the common shares. However, our preferred shares are entitled to receive distributions prior to holders of the common shares. Consequently, basic earnings per share are computed by dividing income by the weighted average number of all classes of shares outstanding during the year. Preferred shares are excluded during any loss period. The diluted preferred shares are computed including the executive employee stock options calculated using the treasury-stock method as they were granted at an exercise price less than the market price of the shares.

The Company intends to use the majority of the net proceeds from the primary offering, in the approximate amount of US$102.3 million, for the purchase and lease of the additional Boeing 737 Next Generation aircraft. The offering is expected to close on May 3, 2005.
