Gas Co-generation Expansion Project of
Huaneng Beijing Co-generation Power Plant was Approved

(5 August 2010, Beijing, the PRC) Huaneng Power International, Inc. (“HPI” or the “Company”) NYSE HNP; HKEx: 902; SSE: 600011 is pleased to announce that the gas co-generation expansion project of Huaneng Beijing Co-generation Power Plant (of which the Company owns 41% interests) has recently been approved by Beijing Municipal Commission of Development and Reform.

The gas co-generation expansion project of Beijing Co-generation Power Plant will construct one set of “two on one” F-grade gas and steam combined cycle generating unit with a power generation capacity of 923MW, heat supply capacity of 650MW and heat supply area of approximately 13,000,000 square metres, and high-standard denitrification, noise reduction, water treatment and other environmental protection facilities will be constructed concurrently. As the first project commencing construction among the four major cogeneration centres in Beijing, this project firstly introduced the most efficient world-class F-grade gas turbine in the PRC thus setting a new record of the maximum heat supply capacity, minimum power consumption for power generation and highest annual thermal efficiency for the same type of generating units in the PRC and attaining a leading and international class design standard in the PRC. The construction of this project will have an active demonstrating effect on the construction of subsequent gas co-generation centres in Beijing and will satisfy the heat demand of Beijing city, enhance energy supply safety and make a significant contribution to the optimization of the energy structure.

The estimated total dynamic investment of this project is approximately RMB3.197 billion, of which 25% is project capital which shall be contributed by the Company, Beijing Jingneng International Energy Limited and China Hua Neng Group Hong Kong Limited according to the ratio of 41%, 34% and 25%, respectively.
