This document supplements the Note Prospectus in connection with any secondary market transactions in the notes by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated and its affiliates. Capitalized terms used but not defined in this supplement have the meanings set forth in the Note Prospectus.

The Starting Value for the notes was defined in the final term sheet dated January 28, 2016 (the Final Term Sheet). The Starting Value was defined as the lowest closing level of the Market Measure on any Market Measure Business Day (subject to adjustment as described in the term sheet) during the Starting Value Determination Period.

The Starting Value Determination Period expired on February 29, 2016. The lowest closing level of the Market Measure on any Market Measure Business Day during the Starting Value Determination Period (taking into account any such adjustments) was 1,829.08, which was the closing level of the Market Measure on February 11, 2016.

Therefore, the Starting Value for the notes is 1,829.08.
