PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Department of National Defence selects CGI for the support of command and control operation tools

Quebec City, Quebec, April 25, 2005 The Department of National Defence of Canada has selected CGI Group Inc. (CGI) (TSX: GIB.SV.A; NYSE: GIB) for a three-year contract valued at CDN$15 million for the continued support of command and control operation tools as well as software upgrades. This contract has the option of being extended for one-year. CGI has delivered services to National Defence for over 15 years.

As part of this contract, some 25 CGI professionals are working in the client's Val Cartier, Quebec-based research unit. The tools are based on NATO's standards which enable all allied countries to interface and share vital information. CGI is responsible for the development of several applications based on these standards.

The tools help the military plan and make decisions when in defence and in peace keeping operations. This upgrade and continued support of these tools is part of a federal initiative to provide Canadian Forces' commanders with better access to information for planning, monitoring and adapting activity in order to make decisions more efficiently and effectively. Ultimately, the purpose of these tools is to use the information to save lives.

We are pleased that through this engagement we can extend our long-term partnership with National Defence. We have been able to demonstrate our ability to bring incremental value to them as a result of our team of talented professionals who have intimate knowledge of both their technical and business requirements. We are dedicated to helping them grow in the most economical way possible, said Claude Marcoux, senior vice-president, Quebec City of CGI.
