February 7, 2003

To Our Shareholders:

We are pleased to submit to you our report for the period ended December 31, 2002. The net asset value per common share at that date was $13.25. During the quarter ended December 31, 2002, three $0.105 per share monthly dividends were declared and paid to common shareholders.

INVESTMENT REVIEW

For the quarter, Cohen & Steers Quality Income Realty Fund had a total return, based on income and change in net asset value, of - 0.8%. This performance compares to the NAREIT Equity REIT Index's(a) total return of 0.4%. From February 28, 2002 (commencement of operations) through December 31, 2002, the fund's total return was - 2.7%, compared to the NAREIT Equity REIT Index's total return of 2.0%.

For the third year in a row, REITs produced positive absolute returns in a financial market environment that most equity investors found both challenging and discouraging. Stock market losses over the past three years reached historic proportions as expectations for stronger economic growth and, more importantly, corporate profit growth dimmed continuously throughout the year.

Edgar Filing: COHEN & STEERS QUALITY INCOME REALTY FUND INC - Form N-CSR

The best performing REIT sectors were those that experienced the highest earnings growth. Regional mall REITs had a total return of 24.6%, shopping centers were up 17.8%, and the relatively healthy industrial sector rose 17.4%. The worst performers were the office and apartment sectors, which returned - 6.3% and - 6.2% respectively. For the second year in a row small capitalization REITs outdistanced larger companies by roughly 9% to 2%, a phenomenon that in our opinion was more the result of declining interest rates than superior fundamentals.

While REIT share prices escaped the throes of the bear market for the year as a whole, their fundamentals did not. By year end, prices started catching up with earnings prospects. In the first half of the year, REITs had a 13.5% total return. By midyear, however, fears of a return to recession, a decline in earnings expectations, and the growing threats of war shook even REIT investors' confidence. Toward year end, these fears became justified as vacancy rates began to rise at a significant rate. Deterioration was experienced in all sectors with the exception of retail. Consequently, REIT prices retreated, declining by 13.4% in the four months from July through October. The prospect of a delayed recovery in real estate fundamentals (and therefore, REIT earnings) until as late as 2004 dictated this correction in prices. Throughout the second half of the year, earnings estimates for almost all REITs decayed to the point where a modest decline in REIT industry earnings is expected for 2003.

COHEN & STEERS QUALITY INCOME REALTY FUND, INC.

Given that the fund's inception date was February 28, 2002 and the initial investment period was not complete until mid-April, the fund's performance characteristics are reflective of the fact that REITs weakened throughout the course of the year. The fund's best performing investments were in the regional mall, shopping center and diversified sectors, which generated total returns of 9.5%, 12.6% and 4.2%, respectively. The common theme among these sectors was the continued resilience of the consumer even as the economy continued to weaken throughout the course of the year. Generationally low interest rates translated into a mortgage refinancing boom, putting more money in consumers' pockets, clearly a good sign for the retail industry. Conversely, this same phenomenon had dramatically negative implications for the apartment sector, as home affordability increased and the rate of home ownership reached its highest level in history. As a result, the fund's apartment investments experienced a total return of - 9.5% from inception through the end of the year.

For the first time in 10 years, expectations of a decline in earnings also precipitated fears of weakening dividend safety. In fact, two multifamily REITs reduced their dividends in the fourth quarter. It is expected by many that several more such cuts, particularly in the apartment sector, are in the offing this year. Again, the speed with which fundamentals deteriorated for some of these companies was alarming. At year end 2001, REIT free cash flows covered dividends by a ratio of 1.5, whereas by year end 2002 this ratio declined to 1.3. We believe it is unlikely to go much lower and, as a result, any notion of widespread dividend cuts is totally unwarranted in our view. Despite this cyclical downturn, we believe that our portfolio companies are extremely well capitalized, well managed and well positioned for a cyclical recovery.

In other developments in 2002, net inflows into REIT mutual funds, at $3.4 billion, plus another $2.3 billion in closed-end REIT funds, were the highest since 1998 and were consistent throughout the year. This was in contrast to the persistent flow out of other equity mutual funds. However, despite favorable investor sentiment REITs raised very little equity capital. There was only one sizable initial public offering of note, made by Heritage Property Investment Trust, and $5.8 billion was raised in all other REIT common stock offerings. Even though interest rates reached and remained at generational lows, REITs in aggregate did not borrow more in 2002 than in 2001. We believe this lack of appetite for capital is the result of a shortage of compelling investment opportunities coupled with a strong investment and capital markets discipline. Property prices generally rose throughout the year, the result of the strength of demand for realty investments by those who remained unfazed by moderating rental income growth. This permitted REITs to transact a record volume of property sales while at the same time validating our belief that, in general, REIT stocks continue to trade at discounts to the value of their underlying assets.

INVESTMENT OUTLOOK

As has been our outlook for the past year, we believe that economic growth will continue at a moderate pace over the coming quarters and well into 2004. With unprecedented fiscal and monetary stimulus already in the system, recently introduced additional stimulus, a weakening dollar and the upcoming presidential election in 2004, this case has only grown stronger. Perhaps the largest uncertainties that remain ahead are the war on terror (which will likely last for a long time) and the potential war in Iraq (which, if it happens, could be fairly short). Our sense is that these concerns are already discounted in REIT share prices and perhaps the overall stock market as well. Nonetheless, they will likely increase the popularity of a more conservative, income-oriented approach to investing that emphasizes absolute returns -- an approach that we believe will favor REITs.

Currently, we face two misperceptions in our industry. The first is that REIT share prices are disconnected from real estate and REIT fundamentals. On the contrary, the previously noted REIT market decline in the second half of last year most likely discounted currently weak fundamentals. We believe that REIT share prices remain connected with net asset values, which have been buoyed by the robust private market. Looking forward, the key to investment success in 2003 will be to accurately project the outlook for profit growth in 2004. Because real estate is an asset class that has considerable visibility, any profit recovery will be evident well in advance. In our opinion, the key factors are economic and job growth, and how they translate into improving health for real estate markets. Just as there was a collapse in demand for space in the past two years, we expect to see an improvement in demand as the economic recovery continues to unfold. Because the supply of new space has been relatively low for many property types, our expectation is that as the year progresses we will see sequential improvement in occupancy rates, rental rates and profits for just about every sector of the REIT industry. If the economy responds as strongly as we expect, real estate fundamentals in some sectors may potentially recover as fast as they deteriorated last year.

The second misperception is that if stocks do well in 2003, REITs will not. History simply does not corroborate this assertion and the diversification benefits of REITs are extant irrespective of the stock market cycle. Whereas many analysts have tried to predict REIT performance relative to the stock market, we believe that this is simply not an appropriate comparison. In addition, the stock market debacle of the past three years has disillusioned many investors and encouraged greater investment in what are viewed as more predictable asset classes, such as real estate. The continued demand for property investments has stabilized private market values, and there are a growing number of institutional and individual investors seeking to increase their exposure to the real estate asset class. The proven success of the REIT format has attracted much of this capital to the public market. Early estimates indicate that in 2002 REITs garnered over 20% of institutional investor real estate commitments, more than double that in 2001. Real estate values should hold up as long as the economy grows, interest rates do not soar, and the demand for property investment remains strong -- all of which we expect to happen. Finally, with interest rates and total return expectations generally very low, achieving one's investment objective primarily through current income, rather than significant capital appreciation, may well attract even more investors to REITs.

The persistent strength of real estate prices has left REITs with very limited new investment opportunities in many sectors. One result is that we have seen a return to substantial share buybacks by many REITs. In addition, if REIT share prices languish, we would fully expect that REITs themselves would be targets of opportunistic investors. Indeed, toward the close of last year, Simon Property Group, the nation's largest owner of shopping centers, launched a hostile acquisition campaign for Taubman Centers. While the outcome of this contest is still undecided, it is representative of the discounts from asset value at which many public companies today are selling. We believe that for the companies with the best quality properties, anything more than a modest discount from NAV will invite corporate action to close that gap, thereby mitigating a great deal of downside risk.

COHEN & STEERS QUALITY INCOME REALTY FUND, INC.

In terms of portfolio positioning, we enter 2003 with our largest absolute and relative weighting in the office sector. The major office owners today are among the most undervalued in our universe, with excellent balance sheets that afford them significant financial flexibility. They are selling at the greatest discounts from net asset value, even greater discounts from replacement cost, and have high dividend yields that we believe are adequately covered by cash flows. We are maintaining an underweight position in the apartment sector because of the persistence of new construction despite continually declining demand. It is unlikely that we will change this view until we see a meaningful improvement in the employment picture, preferably coupled with a slowdown in the surge of single-family home ownership. Our expectations for a stronger economy warrant a significant representation in both the regional mall and industrial sectors. We are continuing to avoid the hotel sector until the companies are in a position to begin paying normalized dividends again.

If there are any lingering doubts about REIT investment characteristics, REITs' performance in 2002 should have laid them to rest. While some investors may be tempted to become 'market timers' in response to the high volatility and poor returns from stocks over the past several years, we believe that they would be much better served by practicing portfolio diversification. The ability of REITs to produce attractive absolute returns -- with the majority of returns coming from income -- has earned them an important role in many investors' portfolios.

THE TAXATION OF DIVIDENDS

The centerpiece of the Bush administration's recently announced economic stimulus plan is to eliminate the double taxation of corporate dividends by making them tax-free at the shareholder level. It is a proposal that, depending on how it is adopted, could have wide ranging implications for the financial markets and corporate dividend policies. Although details have not yet been formulated, it is generally believed that REIT dividends would not be eligible for this tax-exempt status because REITs do not pay taxes. It is also generally believed that if REIT dividends remain subject to taxation, REITs would be somewhat less tax-advantaged than they have been historically with respect to some parts of the investor universe.

Without knowing the final details (such as whether there will be any limitations on this exclusion), which indeed we may not know until a bill is signed into law, it is very difficult to draw any firm conclusions. However, there are a few points worth making. First, this provision would not remove any of the intrinsic advantages that REITs currently enjoy -- it essentially leaves them unchanged. Second is that the majority of shareholders at large, including REIT shareholders, are already tax-exempt. For pension funds, endowments and retirement accounts, as examples, the high dividends of REITs will remain at least as attractive, if not more so, no matter what the tax status is for other securities. And third, we believe the major determinant of all security prices, including those of REITs, will be fundamentals. Thus, whatever the outcome of this tax bill, our primary focus will continue to be the analysis and assessment of real estate fundamentals, and the impact of these fundamentals on REIT share prices.

Sincerely,

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

NOTE 1. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Cohen & Steers Quality Income Realty Fund, Inc. (the fund) was incorporated under the laws of the State of Maryland on August 22, 2001 and is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. The fund had no operations until February 15, 2002 when it sold 7,000 shares of common stock for $100,275 to Cohen & Steers Capital Management, Inc. (the investment manager). In addition, on February 27, 2002, the investment manager made a capital contribution of $1,701 to the fund. Investment operations commenced on February 28, 2002.

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the fund in the preparation of its financial statements. The policies are in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. The preparation of the financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of income and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Portfolio Valuation: Investments in securities that are listed on the New York Stock Exchange are valued, except as indicated below, at the last sale price reflected at the close of the New York Stock Exchange on the business day as of which such value is being determined. If there has been no sale on such day, the securities are valued at the mean of the closing bid and asked prices for the day. If no bid or asked prices are quoted on such day, then the security is valued by such method as the board of directors shall determine in good faith to reflect its fair market value.

Securities not listed on the New York Stock Exchange but listed on other domestic or foreign securities exchanges or admitted to trading on the National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotations, Inc. (Nasdaq) national market system are valued in a similar manner. Securities traded on more than one securities exchange are valued at the last sale price on the business day as of which such value is being determined as reflected on the tape at the close of the exchange representing the principal market for such securities.

Readily marketable securities traded in the over-the-counter market, including listed securities whose primary market is believed by the investment manager to be over-the-counter, but excluding securities admitted to trading on the Nasdaq national list, are valued at the mean of the current bid and asked prices as reported by Nasdaq, the National Quotations Bureau or such other comparable sources as the board of directors deems appropriate to reflect their fair market value. However, certain fixed-income securities may be valued on the basis of prices provided by a pricing service when such prices are believed by the board of directors to reflect the fair market value of such securities. Where securities are traded on more than one exchange and also over-the-counter, the securities will generally be valued using the quotations the board of directors believes reflect most closely the value of such securities.

Short-term debt securities, which have a maturity of 60 days or less, are valued at amortized cost which approximates value.

Interest Rate Swaps: The fund uses interest rate swaps in connection with the sale of taxable auction market preferred shares. In an interest rate swap, the fund agrees to pay the other party to the interest rate swap (which is known as the counterparty) a fixed rate payment in exchange for the counterparty agreeing to pay the fund a variable rate payment that is intended to approximate the fund's variable rate payment obligation on the taxable auction market preferred shares. The payment obligation is based on the notional amount of the swap. Depending on the state of interest rates in general, the use of interest rate swaps could enhance or harm the overall performance of the common shares. The market value of interest rate swaps is based on pricing models that consider the time value of money, volatility, the current market and contractual prices of the underlying financial instrument.

Security Transactions and Investment Income: Security transactions are recorded on trade date. Realized gains and losses on investments sold are recorded on the basis of identified cost for accounting and tax purposes. Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Discounts and premiums of securities purchased are amortized using the scientific method over their respective lives.

Dividends and Distributions to Shareholders: Dividends from net investment income are declared and paid to common shareholders monthly. Dividends to shareholders are recorded on the ex-dividend date. A portion of the fund's dividend may consist of amounts in excess of net investment income derived from nontaxable components of the dividends from the fund's portfolio investments. Net realized capital gains, unless offset by any available capital loss carryforward, are distributed to shareholders annually.

Dividends from net investment income and capital gain distributions are determined in accordance with U.S. federal income tax regulations which may differ from generally accepted accounting principals.

Series T, Series TH, and Series F preferred shares pay dividends based on a variable interest rate set at auctions, normally held every seven days. Dividends for Series T, Series TH, and Series F preferred shares are accrued for the subsequent seven day period on the auction date. In most instances, dividends are payable every seven days, on the first business day following the end of the dividend period.

Series W preferred shares pay dividends based on a variable interest rate set at auctions, normally held every 28 days. Dividends for Series W preferred shares are accrued for the subsequent 28 day period on the auction date. In most instances, dividends are payable every 28 days, on the first business day following the end of the dividend period.

Federal Income Taxes: It is the policy of the fund to qualify as a regulated investment company, if such qualification is in the best interest of the shareholders, by complying with the requirements of Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies, and by distributing substantially all of its taxable earnings to its shareholders. Accordingly, no provision for federal income or excise tax is necessary.

NOTE 2. INVESTMENT MANAGEMENT FEES, ADMINISTRATION FEES AND OTHER TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

Investment Management Fees: Cohen & Steers Capital Management, Inc. (the investment manager) serves as the investment manager to the fund, pursuant to an investment management agreement (the management agreement). The investment manager furnishes a continuous investment program for the fund's portfolio, makes the day-to-day investment decisions for the fund and generally manages the fund's investments in accordance with the stated policies of the fund, subject to the general supervision of the board of directors of the fund. The investment manager also performs certain administrative services for the fund. For the services under the management agreement, the fund pays the investment manager a monthly management fee, computed daily and payable monthly at an annual rate of 0.85% of the fund's average daily managed asset value. Managed asset value is the net asset value of the common shares plus the liquidation preference of the preferred shares. For the period February 28, 2002 (commencement of operations) through December 31, 2002, the fund incurred investment management fees of $5,597,395.

As long as this expense cap continues, it may lower the fund's expenses and increase its total return. For the period February 28, 2002 (commencement of operations) through December 31, 2002, the investment manager waived management fees of $2,107,254.

Administration Fees: Pursuant to an administration agreement, the investment manager also performs certain administrative and accounting functions for the fund and receives a fee of 0.02% of the fund's average daily managed asset value. For the period February 28, 2002 (commencement of operations) through December 31, 2002, the fund incurred $131,703 in administration fees.

Director's Fees: Certain directors and officers of the fund are also directors, officers and/or employees of the investment manager. NOTE 3. PURCHASES AND SALES OF SECURITIES

The fund has a dividend reinvestment plan (the plan) commonly referred to as an 'opt-out' plan. Each shareholder will have all distributions of dividends and capital gains automatically reinvested in additional common shares by EquiServe Trust Company, NA as agent for common shareholders pursuant to the plan (the plan agent), unless they elect to receive cash. The plan agent will either (i) effect purchases of common shares under the plan in the open market or (ii) distribute newly issued common shares of the fund. Shareholders who elect not to participate in the plan will receive all distributions in cash paid by check mailed directly to the shareholder of record (or if the shares are held in street or other nominee name, then to the nominee) by the plan agent, as dividend disbursing agent. Shareholders whose common shares are held in the name of a broker or nominee should contact the broker or nominee to determine whether and how they may participate in the plan.

The plan agent serves as agent for the common shareholders in administering the plan. After the fund declares a dividend or makes a capital gain distribution, the plan agent will, as agent for the participants, either (i) receive the cash payment and use it to buy common shares in the open market, on the NYSE or elsewhere, for the participants' accounts or (ii) distribute newly issued common shares of the fund on behalf of the participants. The plan agent will receive cash from the fund with which to buy common shares in the open market if, on the determination date, the net asset value per share exceeds the market price per share plus estimated brokerage commissions on that date. The plan agent will receive the dividend or distribution in newly issued common shares of the fund if, on the determination date, the market price per share plus estimated brokerage commissions equals or exceeds the net asset value per share of the fund on that date. The number of shares to be issued will be computed at a per share rate equal to the greater of (i) the net asset value or (ii) 95% of the closing market price per share on the payment date.

Participants in the plan may withdraw from the plan upon written notice to the plan agent. Such withdrawal will be effective immediately if received not less than ten days prior to a distribution record date; otherwise, it will be effective for all subsequent dividend record dates. When a participant withdraws from the plan or upon termination of the plan as provided below, certificates for whole common shares credited to his or her account under the plan will be issued and a cash payment will be made for any fraction of a common share credited to such account. In the alternative, upon receipt of the participant's instructions, common shares will be sold and the proceeds sent to the participant less brokerage commissions and any applicable taxes.

The plan agent maintains each common shareholder's account in the plan and furnishes confirmations of all acquisitions made for the participant as soon as practicable but no later than 60 days. Common shares in the account of each plan participant will be held by the plan agent on behalf of the participant. Proxy material relating to shareholders' meetings of the fund will include those shares purchased as well as shares held pursuant to the plan.

In the case of shareholders, such as banks, brokers or nominees, which hold common shares for others who are the beneficial owners, the plan agent will administer the plan on the basis of the number of common shares certified from time to time by the record shareholders as representing the total amount registered in the record shareholder's name and held for the account of beneficial owners who are participants in the plan. Common shares may be purchased through any of the underwriters, acting as broker or, after the completion of this offering, dealer.

The plan agent's fees for the handling of reinvestment of dividends and other distributions will be paid by the fund. Each participant will pay a pro rata share of brokerage commissions incurred with respect to the plan agent's open market purchases in connection with the reinvestment of distributions. There are no other charges to participants for reinvesting dividends or capital gain distributions. See 'Taxation.'

The automatic reinvestment of dividends and other distributions will not relieve participants of any income tax that may be payable or required to be withheld on such dividends or distributions.

Experience under the plan may indicate that changes are desirable. Accordingly, the fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the plan as applied to any distribution paid subsequent to written notice of the change sent to all shareholders of the fund at least 90 days before the record date for the dividend or distribution. The plan also may be amended or terminated by the plan agent by at least 90 days' written notice to all shareholders of the fund. All correspondence concerning the plan should be directed to the plan agent at (telephone 800-426-5523).

Notice is hereby given in accordance with Section 23(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 that the fund may purchase, from time to time, shares of its common stock in the open market.
