Item 5.02 Departure of Directors or Certain Officers; Election of Directors; Appointment of Certain Officers; Compensatory Arrangements of Certain Officers

(b) Astrotech Corporation (NASDAQ: ASTC), a leading provider of commercial aerospace services and in the commercialization of space technologies, today announced a realignment of its corporate structure in order to optimize operational efficiencies. The Company's action follows an evaluation of each business and a review of strategic alternatives. Astrotech's corporate realignment includes the termination of James Royston, President of Astrotech Corporation.

"This corporate leadership realignment allows us to streamline Astrotech, reduce overall costs and maximize shareholder value," said Thomas B. Pickens III, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Astrotech.

The corporate realignment will allow Astrotech to put a greater focus on the pre-launch satellite service offering of its Astrotech Space Operations business unit. The Company has no immediate plans of filling the position created by Mr. Royston's termination.

Item 9.01. Financial Statements and Exhibits.
