Item 2.02. Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

On June 20, 2005, Nextel Partners, Inc. (the Company) announced that it had earned top honors as the most profitable information-technology company in the U.S. based on the Company's return on equity, according to BusinessWeek's Information Technology 100 feature in its June 20 issue. The magazine researched approximately 500 publicly-traded IT companies in eight industry categories, and ranked the top 100 based on four criteria: revenue, revenue growth, return on equity and shareholder return. The Company outpaced the group with an 81.3 percent return on equity during the most recent 12-month period ending March 31, 2005. A copy of the Company's press release with this announcement is attached as Exhibit 99.1 to this Current Report on Form 8-K and incorporated herein by this reference.

The information in this report shall not be deemed to be filed for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the Exchange Act), or otherwise subject to the liability of that section, and shall not be incorporated by reference into any registration statement or other document filed under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the Exchange Act, except as shall be expressly set forth by specific reference in such filing.

The information presented in the attached press release includes financial information prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the U.S., or GAAP, as well as other financial measures that may be considered non-GAAP financial measures, including return on equity. Generally, a non-GAAP financial measure is a numerical measure of a company's performance, financial position or cash flows that either excludes or includes amounts that are not normally excluded or included in the most directly comparable measure calculated and presented in accordance with GAAP. As described more fully in the schedule attached to the press release, management believes this non-GAAP measure provides meaningful additional information about our performance. The non-GAAP financial measure should be considered in addition to, but not as a substitute for, the information prepared in accordance with GAAP. A reconciliation from GAAP results to the non-GAAP financial measure is provided in the schedule attached to the press release.
