CB BANCSHARES ANNOUNCES THAT SHAREHOLDERS RIGHTS PLAN IS TRIGGERED BY CENTRAL PACIFIC AND ITS SHAREHOLDER GROUP IF ACTION TO CALL SPECIAL MEETING IS VALID

Maintains That Authorizations and Call For June 26 Meeting Are Invalid and Therefore Shareholder Rights Plan Not Yet Triggered

Central Pacific Can Avoid Triggering Plan by Voiding Request For June 26 Meeting and Soliciting Authorizations Publicly

HONOLULU, May 28, 2003 – CB Bancshares, Inc. (Nasdaq: CBBI) announced today that its Board of Directors has amended the company's shareholder rights plan to avoid a distribution of the rights as a result of an invalid request by Central Pacific Financial Corp. (NYSE: CPF) for a special meeting. Under the plan as it existed prior to the amendment, a distribution of the rights would have resulted from Central Pacific obtaining authorizations to call a special shareholders meeting from CB Bancshares shareholders owning approximately 27% of the outstanding shares in a non-public solicitation. The amendment to the plan states that Central Pacific will not be deemed to be the beneficial owner of the shares underlying any of these authorizations unless the authorization ultimately is delivered to CB Bancshares for a valid and effective purpose under Hawaii law and CB Bancshares governing documents. Accordingly, under the plan, if Central Pacific's call for a June 26, 2003 shareholder meeting is valid, Central Pacific will have triggered a distribution of the rights.

"Central Pacific, Tontine Financial Partners, The Banc Funds Co. and others, including, we believe, a major investment fund, apparently were unaware or ignored that obtaining shareholder authorizations through a non-public solicitation would trigger the CB Bancshares rights plan if a sufficient number of shares are involved," a spokesman for CB Bancshares stated. "If the rights distribute in such a situation, and if Central Pacific were to acquire over a majority of CB Bancshares outstanding shares, all holders of rights other than Central Pacific and the shareholders who authorized Central Pacific to call the special meeting would have the right to acquire shares of CB Bancshares at one-half the market price through exercise of the rights. In addition, if CB Bancshares thereafter merged with Central Pacific, holders of rights would have the right to acquire shares of Central Pacific stock at one-half their market price through exercise of the rights. We doubt that Central Pacific has informed its shareholders and the CB Bancshares shareholders who participated with it about this dilution."

As previously announced, Central Pacific obtained authorizations through a non-public solicitation of institutional shareholders of CB Bancshares who hold in the aggregate in excess of 20% of CB Bancshares outstanding common stock. CB Bancshares rights plan is triggered at a 20% beneficial ownership level. Central Pacific delivered the authorizations to CB Bancshares in an attempt to call a second special meeting of shareholders on June 26, 2003 to vote upon Central Pacific's proposed control share acquisition again. CB Bancshares advised Central Pacific that its purported call for a special meeting is invalid for numerous reasons, but Central Pacific has insisted that its call is valid and that the authorizations it has delivered from shareholders owning close to 30% of CB Bancshares stock are valid and effective for this purpose.

The amendment to the CB Bancshares rights plan provides that Central Pacific will not be deemed to have acquired "beneficial ownership" of the shares covered by any of the authorizations, unless and until such authorization is delivered to CB Bancshares for a valid and effective purpose in accordance with Hawaii law and CB Bancshares governing documents prior to its revocation. So if Central Pacific's use of any authorization not obtained in a public solicitation should prove to be valid, the shares represented by such authorization would be owned by Central Pacific for purposes of the rights plan. Central Pacific could obtain authorizations to call a special meeting from CB Bancshares shareholders owning in excess of 20% of the outstanding shares without triggering a distribution of the rights if the solicitation is conducted publicly in accordance with applicable federal securities laws.

M:To all CB Bancshares shareholders we say mahalo.

F:You cast your vote and have sent Central Pacific's Clinton Arnoldus a powerful message.

M:He called for a special meeting of CB Bancshares' shareholders for a vote under the Hawaii Control Share Acquisitions Statute. Under Hawaii law, he needed over 50% of that vote to proceed with his hostile takeover attempt of City Bank.

F:Mr. Arnoldus got his vote, and the preliminary results are clear. Central Pacific received just 15% of the shares outstanding, short of the amount he needed and far short of the 75% to complete his hostile takeover.

M:Among Hawaii registered shareholders, the preliminary results were even more dramatic with 89% of shares voted giving Mr. Arnoldus a resounding NO!

F:Our directors, customers, employees, and now our shareholders have spoken.

M:They want Mr. Arnoldus to leave our company alone, we're proud to be City Bank.

F:Investors should read CB Bancshares' SEC filings at sec.gov.
