2003 ANNUAL MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS
OF APPLICA INCORPORATED

PROXY STATEMENT

This proxy statement contains information related to the annual meeting of shareholders of Applica Incorporated to be held on Tuesday, May 13, 2003, beginning at 10:00 a.m., at the University of Miami, James W. McLamore Executive Education Center, 5250 University Drive, Coral Gables, Florida, and at any adjournments or postponements thereof. We are first sending the proxy materials to shareholders on or around April 3, 2003.

ABOUT THE MEETING

What is a proxy?

A proxy is your legal designation of another person to vote the stock that you own. That other person is called a proxy. If you designate someone as your proxy in a written document, that document is also called a proxy or proxy card. As is our usual practice, two officers of the company have been designated as proxies for the 2003 annual meeting of shareholders. These two officers are Harry D. Schulman, President, Chief Executive Officer and Secretary, and Adam L. Kaplan, Treasurer.

What is a proxy statement?

A proxy statement is a document the Securities and Exchange Commission requires us to give you when we ask you to sign a proxy card designating Messrs. Schulman and Kaplan each as proxies to vote on your behalf at the annual meeting.

What is the purpose of the annual meeting?

At our annual meeting, shareholders will act upon the matters outlined in the notice of meeting on the cover page of this proxy statement, including the election of directors and the ratification of the reappointment of the independent accountants. In addition, after adjournment of the formal meeting, management will report on Applica's performance during 2002 and respond to appropriate questions from shareholders.

What is the record date?

The record date for the 2003 annual meeting of shareholders is March 24, 2003.

Who is entitled to vote at the meeting?

Only shareholders of record at the close of business on the record date are entitled to receive notice of and to participate in the annual meeting. If you were a shareholder of record on the record date, you will be entitled to vote all of the shares that you held on that date at the meeting, or any postponements or adjournments of the meeting.

What are the voting rights of Applica common stock?

Holders of Applica common stock will vote together as a single class on all matters to be acted upon at the annual meeting. Each outstanding share of Applica common stock will be entitled to one vote on each matter. Neither Applica's Articles of Incorporation nor Bylaws provide for cumulative voting rights.

Who can attend the meeting?

Table of Contents

All shareholders as of the record date, or their duly appointed proxies, may attend the meeting, and each may be accompanied by one guest. Seating is limited and admission to the meeting will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Registration and seating will begin at 9:30 a.m. If you attend, please note that you may be asked to present valid picture identification, such as a driver's license or passport. Cameras, recording devices and other electronic devices will not be permitted at the meeting.

Please also note that if you hold your shares in street name (that is, through a broker or other nominee), you will need to bring a copy of a brokerage statement reflecting your stock ownership as of the record date and check in at the registration desk at the meeting.

What constitutes a quorum?

The presence at the meeting, in person or by proxy, of the holders of a majority of the aggregate voting power of the common stock outstanding on the record date will constitute a quorum, permitting the meeting to conduct its business. As of the record date, 23,500,555 shares of common stock, representing the same number of votes, were outstanding. Thus, the presence of the holders of common stock representing at least 11,750,278 votes will be required to establish a quorum.

Proxies received but marked as abstentions and broker non-votes will be included in the calculation of the number of votes considered to be present at the meeting.

If less than a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock are represented at the meeting, a majority of the shares represented may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

How do I vote?

If you complete and properly sign the accompanying proxy card and return it in the enclosed envelope, it will be voted as you direct. If you are a registered shareholder and attend the meeting, you may deliver your completed proxy card in person. Street name shareholders who wish to vote at the meeting will need to obtain a proxy form from the institution that holds their shares.

Can I change my vote or revoke my proxy after I return my proxy card?

Yes. Even after you have submitted your proxy, you may change your vote or revoke your proxy at any time before the proxy is exercised by filing with the Secretary of Applica either a notice of revocation or a duly executed proxy bearing a later date. The powers of the proxy holders will be suspended if you attend the meeting in person and so request, although attendance at the meeting will not by itself revoke a previously granted proxy.

What are the Board's recommendations?

The Board recommends a vote:

for election of the nominated slate of directors (see proposal one on page 7); and for ratification of the reappointment of Grant Thornton LLP as Applica's independent accountants for the year ended December 31, 2003 (see proposal two on page 23).

With respect to any other matter that properly comes before the meeting, the proxy holders will vote as recommended by the Board of Directors or, if no recommendation is given, in their own discretion.

Table of Contents

What if a shareholder does not specify a choice for a matter when returning a proxy?

Shareholders should specify their choice for each matter on the enclosed form of proxy. Unless you give other instructions on your proxy card, the persons named as proxy holders on the proxy card will vote in accordance with the recommendations of the Board of Directors.

What vote is required to approve each item?

Election of Directors. The affirmative vote of a plurality of the votes cast at the meeting is required for the election of directors. A properly executed proxy marked WITHHOLD AUTHORITY with respect to the election of one or more directors will not be voted with respect to the director or directors indicated, although it will be counted for purposes of determining whether there is a quorum.

Other Items. For each other item, the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares represented in person or by proxy and entitled to vote on the item will be required for approval. A properly executed proxy marked ABSTAIN with respect to any such matter will not be voted, although it will be counted for purposes of determining whether there is a quorum.

What is the difference between a shareholder of record and a shareholder who holds shares in street name?

If your shares are registered in your name, you are a shareholder of record. If your shares are in the name of your broker or bank, your shares are held in street name.

If you hold your shares in street name through a broker or other nominee, your broker or nominee may not be permitted to exercise voting discretion with respect to some of the matters to be acted upon. Thus, if you do not give your broker or nominee specific instructions, your shares may not be voted on those matters and will not be counted in determining the number of shares necessary for approval. Shares represented by such broker non-votes will, however, be counted in determining whether there is a quorum.

How are abstentions and broker non-votes counted?

Abstentions and broker non-votes will not affect the outcome of any vote.

Who pays the proxy solicitation costs and who solicits proxies?

The cost of preparing and mailing this proxy statement will be paid by Applica. Employees of Applica may solicit proxies personally and by telephone but will not receive any compensation other than their regular salaries for such solicitation. Applica may request banks, brokers and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries to forward copies of the proxy material to their principals and to request authority for the execution of proxies. Applica may, upon request, reimburse such persons for their expenses in so doing.

What committees has the Board established?

The Board of Directors of Applica has Corporate Governance and Nominating, Compensation, Audit and Acquisition Committees. All members of the Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee, the Compensation Committee and the Audit Committee are independent of Applica under the standards set forth in the current and proposed listing requirements of the New York Stock Exchange.

Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee. The Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee was formed in February 2003 and is responsible for developing and implementing policies and practices relating to corporate governance, including the development, implementation and monitoring of Applica's corporate governance guidelines. In addition, the Committee develops and reviews background information for candidates for the Board of Directors, including those recommended by shareholders. Under Applica's Bylaws, nominations for director may be made by a shareholder entitled to vote who delivers notice to Applica not less than 90 days nor more than 120 days prior to the first anniversary of the date of the notice of the preceding year's annual meeting. Such shareholder's notice to the Secretary must set forth:

as to each person whom the shareholder proposes to nominate for election or reelection as a director, all information relating to such person that is required to be disclosed in solicitations of proxies for elections of directors, or is otherwise required, in each case pursuant to Regulation 14A under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (including such person's written consent to being named in the proxy statement as a nominee and to serving as a director if elected);

as to the shareholder giving the notice, (A) the name and address of such shareholder and (B) the class and number of shares of Applica which are beneficially owned by such shareholder and also which are owned of record by such shareholder; and as to the beneficial owner, if any, on whose behalf the nomination is made, (A) the name and address of such person and (B) the class and number of shares of Applica which are beneficially owned by such person.

Applica may also require any proposed nominee to furnish such other information as may reasonably be required by it to determine the eligibility of such proposed nominee as a director. The Corporate Governance and Nominating Committee is composed of Messrs. Rosen (Chairman), Glazer and Sabates. The predecessor committee, the Nominating Committee, did not meet in 2002.

Compensation Committee. The Compensation Committee reviews and implements Applica's general compensation philosophy and determines the cash and other incentive compensation, if any, to be paid to the Chairman of the Board and the Chief Executive Officer. The Compensation Committee is also responsible for the administration and award of stock options under Applica's stock option plans. The Compensation Committee is composed of Messrs. Rosen (Chairman), Glazer and Hopkins, each of whom is an outside director within the meaning of Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. The Compensation Committee met five times and acted twice in writing in 2002.

Acquisition Committee. The Acquisition Committee is responsible for approving any acquisition or other business combination in which the aggregate consideration paid by Applica or its subsidiaries is in excess of $150 million. The Acquisition Committee is currently composed of Messrs. Friedson (Chairman), Rosen and Sugrue and did not meet in 2002.

Who is the Board's presiding director?

In February 2003, the Board of Directors created a new position of presiding director, whose primary responsibility is to preside over periodic executive sessions of the Board of Directors in which management directors do not participate. The presiding director also advises the Chairman of the Board and the Committee chairs with respect to agendas and information needs relating to Board and Committee meetings and performs other duties that the Board may from time to time delegate to assist it in the fulfillment of its responsibilities. The non-management members of the Board of Directors have designated Jerald Rosen to serve in this position until the Company's 2004 annual meeting of shareholders. Report of the Audit Committee

The following Report of the Audit Committee does not constitute soliciting material and should not be deemed filed or incorporated by reference into any other filing of Applica under the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, except to the extent Applica specifically incorporates this Report by reference therein.

As set forth in more detail in the Audit Committee Charter, the primary function of the Audit Committee is to assist the Board of Directors in fulfilling its oversight responsibilities by reviewing:

The preparation of quarterly and annual financial reports by Applica's management;

The implementation and maintenance of effective systems of internal and disclosure controls; and Applica's auditing, accounting and financial reporting processes generally.

Consistent with this function, the Audit Committee encourages continuous improvement of, and fosters adherence to, Applica's policies, procedures and practices at all levels. The Audit Committee's primary duties and responsibilities are:

To oversee that management has maintained the reliability and integrity of the accounting policies and financial reporting and disclosure practices of Applica;

To supervise the relationship between Applica and its independent accountants, including making decisions with respect to their appointment or removal, reviewing the scope of their audit services, approving non-audit services and confirming the independence of the independent accountants; and

To provide an open avenue of communication among the independent accountants, financial and senior management, the internal auditing department and the Board of Directors.

The Committee has implemented procedures to ensure that during the course of each year it devotes the attention that it deems necessary or appropriate to each of the matters assigned to it under the Committee's charter. The Committee is in the process of reviewing and amending its charter to reflect the requirements implemented by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as well as the proposed New York Stock Exchange listing requirements.

To carry out its responsibilities, the Committee met seven times during 2002. These meetings included private sessions with Applica's independent auditors and Applica's internal auditors at which candid discussions of financial management, accounting and internal control issues took place.

In overseeing the preparation of Applica's financial statements, the Committee met with both management and Applica's independent accountants to review and discuss all financial statements prior to their issuance and to discuss significant accounting issues. Management advised the Committee that all financial statements were prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and the Committee discussed the statements with both management and the outside auditors. The Committee's review included discussion with the outside auditors of matters required to be discussed pursuant to Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61 (Communication With Audit Committees), including the quality of Applica's accounting principles, the reasonableness of significant judgments and the clarity of disclosures in the financial statements.

With respect to Applica's outside auditors, Grant Thornton LLP, the Committee, among other things, received and discussed with them their written report on matters relating to their independence, including the disclosures made to the Committee as required by the Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1 (Independence Discussions with Audit Committees), and considered with the auditors whether the provision of non-audit services provided by them to Applica during 2002 was compatible with the auditors' independence.

Finally, the Committee reviewed major initiatives and programs aimed at strengthening the effectiveness of Applica's internal and disclosure control structure and continued to monitor the scope and adequacy of Applica's internal auditing program, including proposals for adequate staffing.

On the basis of these reviews and discussions, the Committee recommended to the Board of Directors that the Board approve the inclusion of the audited financial statements in Applica's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2002 for filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Management is responsible for Applica's financial reporting process and for the preparation of consolidated financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and the independent auditors are responsible for auditing those financial statements. The Audit Committee is responsible for monitoring and reviewing these processes, not to conduct auditing or accounting reviews and procedures. Members of the Audit Committee are not required to be accountants or auditors by profession. The Committee's considerations and discussions with management and the independent auditors do not assure that Applica's financial statements are presented in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America or that the audit of Applica's financial statements has been carried out in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America.

- (1) The options were granted pursuant to the Company's 1998 Stock Option Plan.
- (2) Based on the binomial option pricing model adapted for use in valuing executive stock options. The estimated values under that model are based on certain assumptions as to variables such as interest rates, stock price volatility and future dividend yields. The actual value, if any, that an executive may realize will depend on the excess of the stock price over the exercise price on the date the option is exercised, so that there is no assurance that the value realized by an executive will be at or near the value estimated by the binomial model.

Aggregated Option/SAR Exercises and Year-End Option/SAR Value Table. The following table sets forth certain information concerning stock options exercised during 2002 and unexercised stock options held by the Named Executive Officers as of the end of 2002.

- (2) Value Realized is the difference between the exercise price and the market price on the exercise date multiplied by the number of options exercised. Value Realized numbers do not necessarily reflect what the executive might receive if he sells the shares acquired by the option exercise, because the market price of the shares at the time of sale may be higher or lower than the price on the exercise date of the option.

Report of the Compensation Committee on Executive Compensation

The following Report of the Compensation Committee and the performance graph which follows do not constitute soliciting material and should not be deemed filed or incorporated by reference into any other filing of Applica under the Securities Act of 1933 or the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, except to the extent Applica specifically incorporates this Report or the performance graph by reference therein.

The Compensation Committee reviews and implements Applica's general compensation philosophy and determines the cash and other incentive compensation to be paid to the Chairman of the Board and the Chief Executive Officer. The Compensation Committee is also responsible for the administration and award of stock options under Applica's stock option plans. The Board of Directors has determined that each member of the Compensation Committee is an independent director as defined by the current and proposed New York Stock Exchange listing requirements.

Philosophy. The Committee's executive compensation philosophy is to provide competitive levels of compensation, integrate the compensation of its executive officers with the achievement of Applica's annual and long-term performance goals, reward above average corporate performance, recognize individual leadership, initiative and achievement, particularly with respect to special projects and assignments, and assist Applica in attracting and retaining qualified management. To meet these objectives, the Compensation Committee attempts to set the compensation of its executive officers at levels that it believes are generally competitive with other companies of the same size in Applica's industry in light of its current and anticipated performance. The Committee believes that the quality and dedication of its executive leaders is a critical factor affecting the long-term value of Applica. Therefore, it continues to try to maintain an executive compensation program that will attract, motivate and retain the highest level of executive leadership possible.

The Compensation Committee endorses the position that equity interests in Applica held by management are beneficial in aligning executive officers' and shareholders' interests in the enhancement of shareholder value. The Committee notes that the compensation philosophy should be measured over a period sufficiently long to determine whether strategy development and implementation are in line with, and responsive to, shareholder expectations. The Compensation Committee relies on judgment, not upon rigid guidelines or formulas, or short-term changes in Applica's stock price, in determining the amount and mix of compensation elements for the executives officers.

Components of Executive Compensation. Compensation of Applica's executive officers consists of both cash payments and grants of stock options. The annual cash compensation consists of a base salary and an annual bonus. Long-term incentives are provided through the grant of incentive and non-qualified stock options under Applica's stock option plans.

Base Salaries. The Compensation Committee attempts to set base salaries of its executive officers at levels that it believes are generally competitive with other companies of the same size in Applica's industry. Information about appropriate salary levels has been determined by reviewing compensation surveys and the public disclosure of Applica's competitors, and through Applica's recruiting activities. Salary increases for executive officers are generally received at the beginning of the third quarter of each year and do not follow a preset schedule or formula.

Six of Applica's executive officers (including the five Named Executive Officers) are parties to employment agreements with Applica. A majority of these employment agreements provide for an annual salary increase equal to the increase in the consumer price index. In certain instances from 1999 to 2002, these adjustments were not made. In January 2003, salaries of three Named Executive Officers were adjusted prospectively for years in which the consumer price index increase was not received.

Salaries are reviewed annually and any additional increases are based on competitive practices, as well as the performance of Applica and the executive officer, including the executive's contribution to the achievement of financial performance and other key goals established for Applica during the year. The salaries paid to the Named Executive Officers for the past three years are shown in the table on page 12.

Bonuses. Cash bonuses have been a standard and expected component of compensation at Applica. Under their employment agreements, the executive officers are entitled to an annual performance bonus based upon the achievement by Applica of certain objective earnings goals and the completion of personal performance goals which are set each year. The performance bonuses range between 15% and 115% of base salary, depending on individual performance and the performance of Applica.

Although the financial performance goals were not met, additional cash compensation was paid for the 2002 fiscal year to executive officers and other management employees. In making the decision to pay such compensation, the Compensation Committee considered the nature and scope of the executive officer's responsibilities, his leadership performance and his potential to enhance long-term shareholder value. The Committee also considered the achievements resulting from management's focus on asset management and Applica's balance sheet during 2002, as well as the stability of Applica's year-over-year sales in an extraordinarily challenging global economic environment. The Committee noted that such results were obtained while management integrated the Weitech acquisition and consolidated the Shelton, Connecticut office with the headquarters in Miami Lakes, Florida, in addition to certain back-office and supply chain functions in Latin America and Canada.

Cash bonuses of between one and three months' base salaries were paid to certain persons employed by Applica's subsidiaries in Hong Kong and Mexico in accordance with the customary practice in those countries.

Bonuses are generally paid in the first quarter of the following year. The bonuses paid to the Named Executive Officers for the past three years are shown in the table on page 12.

Stock Options. The Compensation Committee grants stock options to Applica's executive officers pursuant to its stock option plans. The Compensation Committee has the authority to determine the individuals to whom stock options are awarded, the terms upon which option grants are made, the duration of the options and the number of shares subject to each option. The size of the option grants is generally based on the position level of the recipient. The purpose of stock options is to provide equity compensation whose value is at-risk based on the increase in Applica's stock price and the creation of shareholder value. Stock options also allow executive officers to have equity ownership and to share in the appreciation of the value of Applica stock. Stock options only have value if the stock price appreciates from the date the options are granted.

There are not automatic grants to each executive officer every year. Instead, the Compensation Committee reviews the performance of Applica overall and of each individual executive officer, as well as past option grants to each executive officer, and makes decisions about recipients and grant sizes for the year. Each stock option permits the executive, generally for a period of five years, to purchase shares of Applica stock from the company at the market price of the stock on the date of grant. Stock options granted last year will become exercisable in three equal annual installments on the first, second and third anniversary of the date of grant and are for a term of five years. The stock options granted to the Named Executive Officers in 2002 are shown in the table on page 13.

Historically, it was the Compensation Committee's intention that, over time, compensation opportunities from option grants would constitute a significant portion of each executive officer's total compensation. However, the Committee is closely monitoring the trend regarding expensing stock options and re-evaluating the role of stock options as a component of long-term compensation. Currently, the Board of Directors has chosen not to expense stock options because of the debate over the methodologies for calculating the expense. If the accounting treatment of stock options is modified, the Committee will have to weigh the financial impact to Applica with the benefits of stock option compensation. The Compensation Committee is in the process of reviewing other alternatives for long-term compensation that will motivate Applica's executives and align their interests with those of the shareholders.

Compensation of Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. The Compensation Committee considered a number of factors in determining the overall compensation to be paid to David M. Friedson, who served as Applica's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer during 2002, including Applica's performance, his contribution to Applica's development and Applica's short- and long-term prospects. Pursuant to Mr. Friedson's employment agreement, he is entitled to receive an annual salary increase equal to the increase in the consumer price index. However, from 1999 to 2002, these adjustments were not made. In January 2003, Mr. Friedson's salary was adjusted prospectively for the years in which the consumer price index increase was not received. Mr. Friedson did not receive an increase in salary in 2002.

Mr. Friedson is also entitled to an annual performance bonus based upon the achievement by Applica of certain objective earnings goals and the completion of personal performance goals set by the Compensation Committee each year. The performance bonus can be between 85% and 115% of his base salary, depending on his performance and the performance of Applica.

Mr. Friedson did not receive an annual performance bonus in 2002 because the corporate performance goals previously established by the Compensation Committee were not met. Nevertheless, for the reasons stated above, additional cash compensation was paid to all executive officers. In making the decision to pay such compensation to Mr. Friedson, the Compensation Committee considered Mr. Friedson's leadership over the past years and his commitment for Applica to be a leader in corporate governance. The Committee concluded that under Mr. Friedson's leadership, Applica continued to achieve its overall business goals despite the fact that financial results have been impacted by the factors discussed above. Mr. Friedson received additional cash compensation of $375,000 for the 2002 year.

Mr. Friedson did not receive a grant of stock options in the year ended December 31, 2002.

In February 2003, Applica's Board of Directors separated the office of Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer. Harry D. Schulman was elected President and Chief Executive Officer and Mr. Friedson will continue to serve as Applica's Chairman of the Board.

Table of ContentsEmployment Agreements

David M. Friedson. In June 1999, Applica Incorporated entered into an employment agreement with David M. Friedson, its Chairman of the Board and former Chief Executive Officer. Under this agreement, Mr. Friedson is employed for continuous five-year periods such that on each anniversary of the agreement, the term is automatically extended for an additional year unless written notice of an intention not to extend is given by either party. The agreement provides for minimum annual base salary, subject to adjustment based on the increase in the consumer price index, in addition to other benefits and annual stock option grants at the discretion of the Compensation Committee. Mr. Friedson's base salary was $1,000,000 at December 31, 2002. The agreement also provides for an automobile allowance of $2,000 per month. Under the agreement, Mr. Friedson is entitled to an annual performance bonus based upon Applica's achievement of certain objective earnings goals and his completion of personal performance goals set by the Compensation Committee each year. The performance bonus can be between 85% and 115% of his base salary, depending on his performance. Mr. Friedson is also entitled to such additional bonuses as may be determined from time to time by the Compensation Committee. Additionally, Applica may provide Mr. Friedson with life insurance in an amount equal to five times his annual base salary. Mr. Friedson also receives reimbursement of (1) annual dues in a country club and (2) tax preparation and financial planning on an annual basis up to a maximum of $20,000. Pursuant to the agreement, Applica will reimburse Mr. Friedson, on an after tax basis, for the net increase in his total federal, state, and local income tax liability that results from the compensation received being subject to any New York state or local income taxes. The reimbursement amount is determined by the Compensation Committee, upon the submission of proper substantiation Mr. Friedson.

Mr. Friedson's employment agreement contains certain non-competition, non-disclosure and non-solicitation covenants. Mr. Friedson can be terminated for cause, in which case all obligations of Applica under the agreement immediately terminate, or without cause, in which case he is entitled to a lump sum payment equal to (1) five times his annual base salary and (2) five times his prior year performance bonus, plus specified welfare benefits. If, at any time during the term of the agreement, there is a change in control of Applica and within one year after such change in control, (1) Mr. Friedson is terminated without cause or (2) if he terminates his employment under specific circumstances, then Applica must pay Mr. Friedson a lump sum equal to five times his base salary and five times his prior year performance bonus, along with specified welfare benefits. Additionally, any outstanding options held by Mr. Friedson may be exercised and the underlying shares sold without restrictions imposed by Applica. Pursuant to his employment agreement, if any portion of the change-in-control payment made to Mr. Friedson is subject to an excise tax pursuant to Section 4999 of the Internal Revenue Code, Applica must also make a payment to him in an amount equal to the excise tax imposed.

Upon the termination of his employment contract (other than as a result of a change in control), Mr. Friedson will be retained by Applica as an advisor and consultant for a five-year term, which is automatically extended for an additional year on each anniversary of the term. Mr. Friedson's annual compensation during such advisory term will be 60% of his average annual base salary and bonuses for the three years prior to the start of such term. If there is a change in control of Applica during the advisory term, Mr. Friedson has the option of terminating his services. In such event, Applica must pay Mr. Friedson a lump sum equal to the compensation he would have earned during the remainder of the term, discounted by 10% for each year by which such payments are accelerated.

Harry D. Schulman. In August 1999, Applica Incorporated entered into an employment agreement with Harry D. Schulman, its President, Chief Executive Officer and Secretary. Under this agreement, Mr. Schulman is employed for continuous three-year periods such that on each anniversary of the agreement, the term is automatically extended for an additional year unless written notice of an intention not to extend is given by either party. The agreement provides for minimum annual base salary, subject to adjustment based on the increase in the consumer price index, in addition to other benefits and annual stock option grants at the discretion of the Compensation Committee. Mr. Schulman's annual base salary was $500,000 at December 31, 2002. The agreement also provides for an automobile or monthly automobile allowance. Under the agreement, Mr. Schulman is entitled to an annual performance bonus based upon Applica's achievement of certain objective earnings goals and his completion of personal performance goals set by the Compensation Committee each year. The performance bonus can be between 35% and 75% of his base salary, depending on his performance. Mr. Schulman is also entitled to such additional bonuses as may be determined from time to time by the Compensation Committee. Additionally, Applica provides Mr. Schulman with life insurance in an amount equal to five times his annual base salary. Mr. Schulman also receives reimbursement of (1) annual dues in a country club and (2) tax preparation and financial planning on an annual basis up to a maximum of $5,000.

Mr. Schulman's employment agreement contains certain non-competition, non-disclosure and non-solicitation covenants. Mr. Schulman can be terminated for cause, in which case all obligations of Applica under the agreement immediately terminate, or without cause, in which case he shall be entitled to a lump sum payment equal to (1) three times his annual base salary and (2) three times his prior year performance bonus, plus specified welfare benefits. If, at any time during the term of the agreement, there is a change in control of Applica and within one year after such change in control (1) Mr. Schulman is terminated without cause or (2) if he terminates his employment under specific circumstances, then Applica must pay Mr. Schulman a lump sum equal to three times his base salary and three times his prior year performance bonus, along with specified welfare benefits. Additionally, any outstanding options held by Mr. Schulman may be exercised and the underlying shares sold without restrictions imposed by Applica. Pursuant to his employment agreement, if any portion of the change-in-control payment made to Mr. Schulman is subject to an excise tax pursuant to Section 4999 of the Internal Revenue Code, Applica must also make a payment to him in an amount equal to the excise tax imposed.

Lai Kin. Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited, Applica's Chinese manufacturing subsidiary, has entered into an employment agreement with Lai Kin. This agreement provides for the employment of Mr. Lai as Chairman of Durable for an initial term of three years, which term is automatically extended each year for an additional one-year period unless written notice of an intention not to extend is given by either party. Under this agreement, Mr. Lai is entitled to a minimum annual base salary which, as of December 31, 2002, was approximately $520,000, in addition to other benefits. If at any time during the term of this agreement, there is a change in control of Applica, then Mr. Lai has the option of terminating his employment upon 60 days' notice and, in such event, Applica shall pay Mr. Lai a lump sum amount equal to three times his current annual salary. Such lump sum payment would be in lieu of any compensation that would otherwise be due thereafter under this agreement. Additionally, any outstanding options held by Mr. Lai may be exercised and the underlying shares sold without restrictions imposed by Applica.

Upon Mr. Lai's resignation or termination as Chairman of Durable, Applica has agreed to employ him as a consultant to Applica and Durable and any of their affiliates at a salary equal to 60% of his annual base salary from Durable in the fiscal year immediately preceding his resignation or termination from Durable. Pursuant to this agreement, Mr. Lai will be employed as a consultant for a three-year period which is automatically extended by one year on the first day of the second year of each three-year period unless two years' prior written notice is given to terminate the agreement, in which event the term of the agreement will be automatically extended for one additional year beyond the expiration of the then-current three-year period. This agreement also provides for welfare benefits and contains certain non-competition and non-disclosure covenants. If at any time during the term of this agreement, there is a change in control of Applica, then Mr. Lai has the option of terminating his services under certain specified circumstances and, in such event, Applica shall pay Mr. Lai a lump sum equal to three times his current consulting fee. Such lump sum payment would be in lieu of any compensation that would otherwise be due thereafter under these agreements.

Michael J. Michienzi. In July 2000, Applica Consumer Products, Inc. entered into an employment agreement with Michael J. Michienzi, its Senior Vice President - Global Business Development. Under this agreement, Mr. Michienzi is employed until June 30, 2003, which term is automatically extended each year for an additional one-year period unless written notice of an intention not to extend is given by either party. The agreement provides for minimum annual base salary which, at December 31, 2002, was $330,000, subject to adjustment based on the increase in the consumer price index, in addition to other benefits and annual stock option grants at the discretion of the Compensation Committee. The agreement also provides for an automobile allowance of $975 per month. Under the agreement, Mr. Michienzi is entitled to an annual performance bonus based upon Applica's achievement of certain objective earnings goals and his completion of personal performance goals set by the Compensation Committee each year. The performance bonus can be between 20% and 50% of his base salary, depending on his performance. Additionally, Applica provides Mr. Michienzi with life insurance in an amount equal to five times his annual base salary. CERTAIN RELATIONSHIPS AND RELATED TRANSACTIONS

Matters Relating to Ourimbah Investment Ltd. Ourimbah Investment Ltd., a Hong Kong company, owns approximately 7.8% of the outstanding common stock of Applica. Messrs. Lai Kin and Lam King Loi are majority owners of Ourimbah. Mr. Lai Kin serves as a member of the Board of Directors of Applica and Chairman of Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited, Applica's Chinese manufacturer. Mr. Lam King Loi serves as Vice Chairman of Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited.

In April 1994, in connection with the purchase by Applica of the remaining 20% of the outstanding shares of Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited from Ourimbah, Applica agreed, upon a change of control of Applica (as defined in such agreement), to make an additional payment to Ourimbah in respect of the shares of Applica Durable being purchased under the agreement. The payment is equal to the greater of (i) the same multiple of earnings per share paid for the shares of common stock of Applica received in connection with such change of control or (ii) the same multiple of net asset value per share paid for the shares of common stock of Applica received in connection with such change of control.

In addition, Applica agreed to use its best efforts to recommend to its shareholders and directors that two individuals to be nominated by Mr. Lai Kin and deemed suitable by Applica be appointed as members of Applica's Board of Directors. Applica further agreed to maintain the composition of Durable's Board of Directors equally divided between designees of Ourimbah and persons selected by Applica. Accordingly, for so long as (i) such designees of Ourimbah who are present members of the Board of Directors of Durable remain shareholders of Ourimbah, and (ii) Ourimbah remains a shareholder of Applica, Applica must vote its shares of Durable to appoint such designees of Ourimbah to the Durable Board. When any member of the Durable Board who has been designated by Ourimbah ceases to be a shareholder of Ourimbah, such designee shall no longer be entitled to serve on the Durable Board, and Applica shall have the right to designate a replacement member to the Durable Board in its sole discretion.

Additionally, Applica has agreed to use its best efforts to recommend to its shareholders and directors that Lai Kin be appointed as, and remain a member of, Applica's Board of Directors for such time as Mr. Lai (or Ourimbah) continues to be a shareholder of Applica and continues to be employed by Durable and/or any other affiliate of Applica.

Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited leases certain factories and worker dormitories in China from Ourimbah, which facilitated the building of such factories and dormitories with the local government. The rental payments made to Ourimbah during the year ended December 31, 2002 totaled approximately $870,000. The rental charges are generally comparable to the rates charged Applica Durable Manufacturing Limited by the local government for similar buildings and dormitories.
