Item 8.01. Other Events.

On August 19, 2009, Sterling Financial Corporation ("Sterling") issued a press release, announcing that it has deferred regularly scheduled interest payments on its outstanding junior subordinated notes relating to its trust preferred securities. Under the terms of the junior subordinated notes and the trust documents, Sterling is allowed to defer payments of interest for up to 20 consecutive quarterly periods without default. During the deferral period, the respective trusts will likewise suspend the declaration and payment of dividends on the trust preferred securities. Also during the deferral period, Sterling generally may not pay cash dividends on or repurchase its common stock or preferred stock, including the Fixed Rate Cumulative Perpetual Preferred Stock, Series A (the "Preferred Stock"), issued by Sterling under the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Capital Purchase Program. In addition, Sterling will be restricted from making any payment on outstanding debt obligations that rank equally with, or junior to, the junior subordinated notes. Sterling also announced the suspension of regular quarterly cash dividend payments on the Preferred Stock. Under the terms of the Preferred Stock, Sterling is required to pay on a quarterly basis a dividend rate of 5% per year for the first five years, after which the dividend rate automatically increases to 9%. Dividend payments may be deferred; however, failure to pay dividends for six dividend periods would trigger preferred shareholder board appointment rights. A copy of the press release is included as Exhibit 99.1 to this report.
